Exiled Leader Raps President; Nikita's 'Sinister Designs'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, stepping down as leader of Cubans in exile, charges that President Kennedy has given Fidel Castro "absolute immunity in the execution of Khrushchev's sinister designs."

In a 6,500-word resignation letter that split the Cuban Revolutionary Council apart, Miro accused Kennedy of backing out on a promise of a second invasion and of "liquidating" the struggle for Cuba.

And he warned that the Soviet

Many Faults in Thresher Prior To Sea Trials

Court Told Sub Was In Good Condition Before Last Voyage

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—A Navy court of inquiry has received a list of more than a dozen malfunctions that plagued the nuclear submarine Thresher before she went on sea trials April 10 and was lost with 129 men aboard.

Lt. Raymond A. McCool, 33, of Dover, N.H., told the court Thursday the heavy load of corrective work robbed the crew of sufficient training in disaster procedures.

McCool emphasized, however, that all the work was completed properly and the Thresher was in excellent condition when she put out to sea on her final voyage.

Search To Be Resumed

While the court continued its investigation of the tragedy at Portsmouth naval shipyard where the Thresher was built, an oceanographic vessel Atlantis I, took on scientific equipment at Woods Hole, Mass., and prepared to return Saturday to its search for the remains of the submarine.

The Boston Globe published a report Thursday that the Thresher had been found but it was quickly denied by officials at Woods Hole and the Navy in Washington.

The court resumed hearings today, its opening proceeding behind closed doors, to hear testimony on classified information.

Kennedy Says Budget Cut Would Erase Million Jobs

All Benefits From Proposed Slash in Taxes Would be Offset, He Tells Editors

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today a $5 billion cut in his budget would cost a million jobs and offset all the benefits from a proposed tax cut.

In an address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President said he wasn't saying that federal spending is desirable just for the sake of spending, or that economy efforts should stop.

In words aimed obviously at Republican critics who have been calling for reductions of up to $15 billion in his $100 billion budget, Kennedy said:

"But I am saying that carefully screened and selected federal expenditure programs can play a useful role, both singly and in combination, that to cut $5-$10 billion from the proposed budget would harm both the nation and the typical neighborhood in it, and that the right way to a balanced budget is to seek first a balanced economy. The tax cuts I have proposed, and the level of expenditures I have proposed, have been carefully fitted together with that chief objective in mind."

For the most part, the speech dealt with economics at home. Kennedy drew a picture of a typical American community he called "Random Village" and told at length how it is affected by activities of the federal government.

Brighter Peace Outlook

But the President also referred to the Cuban invasion fiasco of two years ago and the handling of the Cuban crisis of last October, and he said that "there is today more widespread assurance that both peace and freedom can prevail."

He added that while vigilance cannot be relaxed there is a tendency among many newspaper readers and writers to devote more attention to the domestic

Republic Will Not Hike Price on Its Steel Plates

CLEVELAND (AP)—Republic Steel Corp. said today it has rescinded its price increase of $4.50 a ton on steel plates which was among the selective price hikes announced by the firm Monday.

Other increases—averaging $5.34 a ton on some carbon steel products—announced by the nation's third largest steel producer remain in effect. Republic said.

A company spokesman said the increase on plates was rescinded in order to strengthen the firm's competitive position in that field.

He pointed out that other major producers of steel plates did not include that product in their selective price hikes announced last week, and obviously we couldn't sell many plates at a $4.50 increase.

The Hungarian government was understood to be seeking a solution of the problem of his self-imposed exile.

Lobbyist Under Fire for Gifts To Lawmakers

Zablocki on List Of Those Getting Campaign Funds

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield gave top priority today to proposed re-vamping of the Philippines war claims bill after disclosure of a lobbyist's campaign gifts to Congress members sympathetic to the bill.

But Mansfield made it clear he is "certain in my own mind that no member of the Senate was influenced by these contributions in any way and they did not affect their votes on legislation."

The Montana senator was referring to 1960 contributions by Washington lawyer lobbyist John A. O'Donnell—including gifts of $2,000 to Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., and $500 each to Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader.

Big Fees Involved

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee released testimony Thursday that pictured O'Donnell as interested in passage of the $73-million war claims bill because he stood to gain from $150,000 to nearly a half million dollars in fees.

Zablocki and Miller were chief sponsors of the bill in the House. Humphrey introduced it in the Senate. It passed both bodies last summer by a voice vote—with no record roll call.

The bill provides for payment of individual damage claims growing out of Japanese occupation of the Philippines in World War II. None of the money has been dispensed yet.

Backs Amendment

Mansfield said he supports fully a proposed amendment by J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Foreign Relations Committee chairman, to provide for a lump sum payment to the Philippines government. This said Fulbright would cut off O'Donnell's fees.

"I'm all for it," Mansfield told a reporter. "If the Foreign Relations Committee approves it at its meeting Tuesday it will be given top priority consideration in the Senate."

O'Donnell already has collected $265,000 in fees under a 1956 act authorizing war damage payments to religious groups in the Philippines. Fulbright said.

Defends Activities

But the fact that O'Donnell and a Filipino associate, Francisco A. Delgado, were "unduly enriched," Fulbright said "is of less importance than that the legislative process has been subverted."

In a statement after disclosure of O'Donnell's contributions, the lobbyist said his activities "have been no different than those of several hundred other practicing attorneys, including former members of both houses of Congress."

The Justice Department said it will examine the hearing record made public Thursday in a public Foreign Relations Committee hearing.

The testimony showed O'Donnell's contributions came from an $18,000 fund furnished by Philippine sugar interests.

Fulbright said the testimony

Gronouski Says No General Sales Tax

Outagamie Democrats Told That Party Supports Reynolds' Plan

"I am not disgusted with today's defeat of Gov. Reynolds tax bill," State Tax Commissioner John Gronouski said Thursday night. "But rather, I am enthusiastic."

Gronouski spoke at a program sponsored by the Outagamie County Chapter of the Democratic Party at Standard Manufacturing Co. He said he was enthusiastic because the bill was defeated by a slim 49-46 margin, and because no Democratic assemblyman voted against the proposal.

The commissioner said he thinks the tax bill which finally will be passed will be within the framework of the "pay-as-you-go" (withholding tax) plan for corporations.

He said Thursday morning the Republicans had attacked what he considered an "amazing" addition to the party's tax proposal withholding tax for corporations.

"When the bill comes up it will become clear," said Gronouski. "The sales tax won't do the job." He said unless the GOP abandons its credit refund plan it won't get the amount of revenue needed through a general sales tax. If the credit refund is

Move to Extend Terms of State Chiefs Gets Boost

MADISON (AP)—A move to extend the terms of Wisconsin constitutional officers to four years received a boost Thursday in both the Senate and the Assembly.

In a reversal of action taken just 24 hours earlier, the Senate adopted a Democratic sponsored resolution to change the constitution to make the four-year term apply to governor and lieutenant governor. The vote was 17-16.

The same tally by which the proposed amendment had been rejected the day before.

The Senate then moved on to give preliminary approval to resolutions that also would extend to four years the terms of Wisconsin's attorney general, secretary of state, and state treasurer.

work of the governor's original proposal, although he feels there is a possibility the selective sales tax may not be repealed.

Gronouski said a general sales tax would not be passed because "the ground swell for a sales tax to put it bluntly, just isn't there."

Lack of Cohesion

While the Democrats are becoming more unified in support of the governor's tax plan, the commissioner said there is a great lack of cohesion in the Republican caucus.

He said Thursday morning the GOP caucus voted 10-9 against its own tax bill.

Gronouski attacked GOP strategy saying that just last week the Republicans were attacking

2 Cardinals Confer in Red Hungary

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Franziskus Cardinal Koenig of Austria will return to Communist Hungary "in the foreseeable future," a Roman Catholic news agency said today. He returned here last might from Budapest where he met with Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

The report by Kathpress, news agency of the Vienna Archdiocese, gave rise to speculation that the Austrian cardinal would visit Cardinal Mindszenty once more at the U.S. legation in Budapest, where he has taken refuge from Hungary's Communist regime.

Cardinal Koenig held talks with the Hungarian prelate for four hours yesterday, presumably laying to him Pope John XXIII's wishes that he go to Rome.

No details of the talks were reported officially.

Cardinal Mindszenty took refuge in the U.S. legation in Budapest when Soviet troops smashed the Hungarian uprising in 1956. He has been there ever since.

The Hungarian government was understood to be seeking a solution of the problem of his self-imposed exile.

Plunges 50 Feet

Woman Aerialist Third of Troupe To Die in Fall Within 16 Months

BY RANDALL W. BLAKE

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Yetta Grotfent, 42, of the famed circus aerialist family, the Wallendas, died in a 50-foot fall from her slender gray pole at a Shrine Circus performance Thursday night.

She had reached the climax of her solo act and was swaying back and forth in a wide arc when as the pole was on a back swing, Yetta suddenly tumbled backward and plummeted to her death as 4,666 spectators watched in awed silence.

She was the third member of the troupe to die in a fall in the last 16 months.

Dieter Schepp, 23, and Richard Faughnan, 29, were killed in Detroit on Jan. 30, 1962, in a high wire accident involving seven members of the troupe.

Yetta was not a member of that act.

What caused the death of the 42-year-old Yetta?

A member of the Kristensen troupe of equestrians said in a taped interview that "I think she must have passed out up there because she didn't scream or nothing."

Several other circus people said they had heard Yetta wasn't feeling well before she began her solo act.

Some spectators said the aerialist appeared to slip.

Preferred Higher Pole

In an interview in Detroit in 1958 Yetta had said that when she was on the indoor pole "it seems so little I feel I have to do more to impress the audience I get a little reckless."

That comment had followed her explanation of her preference for the 122½ foot pole she used outdoors and on which, she said, "You can really sway, what with the height and the wind."

Fellow performers said Yetta had been nervous since the circus opened here Monday. They said her apparatus had been damaged last week in Florida and temporary repairs had been made.

"I don't think there was any-

OAS Asked to Resist Reds

Committee Points To Intervention by Communist Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special committee of the Organization of American States has recommended that all of the American republics organize to give battle to communism.

The report by an eight-nation committee has not been made public but its contents became known today to The Associated Press.

The OAS document was drafted by a committee of representatives from Argentina, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Panama, Peru, El Salvador and the United States.

More Red Activity

The document says "the intervention of the Sino-Soviet powers in this hemisphere via Cuba, has increased notably in the last year." It said the increases came in the form of a buildup of Soviet military power in Cuba and greater use of that island as a base from which to foment subversion in other countries.

Group Proposals

The committee recommended that member nations:

1. Enforce all existing recommendations of inter-American conferences and meetings of foreign ministers held since 1948 in relation to subversion and handling of agents of sabotage and propaganda.
2. Build up security and intelligence services to put them in a position "to give battle to subversive activities of international communism."
3. Avail themselves of technical services of the OAS on security matters.
4. Exchange information among the different national on activities of followers of Cuba Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Communists.

Noisy Faucet

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
Q: When we turn on the cold water faucet in the bathroom basin there is a loud noise. The noise stops if a faucet in the bathtub is turned on at the same time. What causes this and how can it be stopped?
A: I suspect that wear and tear has probably caused the washer to become loosened, and also roughened, to such an extent that the water pressure makes it noisy. Or it may be due to the loosening of a part inside the faucet. The noise stops when another faucet is turned on because the pressure is lessened thereby. Remove and inspect the washer; if worn, replace it. While the washer is out, feel the seat (where the washer rests) with your finger. If it is rough, it should be smoothed. Otherwise, the new washer will be similarly roughened. For this job, a seat dressing tool is best to use; this is an inexpensive and useful tool available at hardware and plumbing supplies stores. Or tightening the screw holding the washer may be enough to stop the noise.

Q: The previous owner of our house built a new front stoop of brick himself and didn't do a good clean-up job on the cement spatters. There are a number of fairly large spatters on the brick which we find very unsightly. How can these be removed?

A: Make a solution of muriatic acid in the proportions of one part acid to 10 parts water. Pour the acid slowly into the water to prevent splattering, and use a glass or wood container to hold the solution. Apply the solution liberally to the cement spatters, and allow to remain two to three minutes, to soften the cement, then scrape off after rinsing with clear water. Repeat application if necessary. After cleaning, acid remaining on the surface should be neutralized by washing with a solution of one pint of ammonia in two gallons of water, followed by ample rinsing with clear water. Because of the highly corrosive nature of the acid solution, during work wear rubber gloves and old clothing and goggles to protect the eyes.

Q: We bought an old farmhouse to use for vacations. There are a pair of old stone washbasins that are discolored inside with a grayish film. How can this be cleaned off? Detergents don't seem to do any good.

A: I assume this is a soap film. To remove this, try scrubbing with hot, white vinegar, followed by rinsing with clear water. If this does not completely remove the discoloration, allow the stone to dry thoroughly. Then rub down surfaces with "OO" sandpaper.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Don't be a Roller Robot, Gals

Upon the arrival of his sister's date, little brother was heard to say, "She's not ready. She hasn't got her hair rolled up yet!" It was a natural mistake. You see, junior thought rollers were the style. He almost never saw his sister without them. So he reasoned—why should she put in an appearance until they were in place?

All males react to rollers, but not with junior's compliance. An eligible bachelor we know thinks a girl with rollers looks like a cartoon of a Martian. A husband closes his eyes to a wife's tortured head and pictures the girl he married. A small child has been known to cry when his mother took her hair down—he didn't recognize her!

Let the roller contingent beware and take care. Parading the gadgets for hours and even days detracts from the very image of loveliness they are designed to foster.

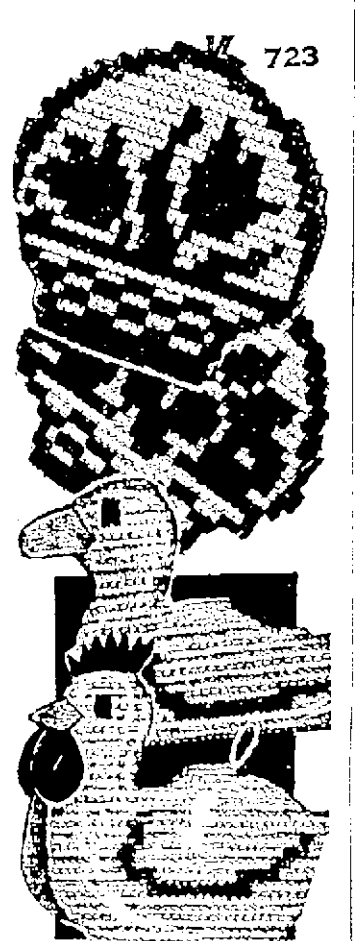

Were a girl or woman forced to keep her hair zombie-wound she'd cry havoc. Why does she do it? Does she figure on more curl with more time? Well, as any hairdresser will tell her, hair is as curled as it is ever going to be, once the set has dried. Or maybe the lady is plain lazy—if she doesn't take her hair down today, she won't have to put it up tomorrow.

For certain, she cares not a fig for her locks. She ignores the breaking strands and the pull on the scalp that the ever-present roller may cause. Of course, that's her affair. But how she looks, rolled like a robot, to her public is the concern of that public. And should be hers!

Many State Citizens Rue Day They Set Fire to Dead Grass

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Fast-Crescent Staff Writer

A tour of Wisconsin these days might suggest that the folks are employing a scorched earth policy; burned areas, once covered with dead, dry grass, are black.

A check of area fire departments indicates that folks who burn off year year's dry grasses do not always do it in good judgment. The majority of the calls for fire department aid these days are for the control of grass fires.

Most metropolitan communities have hard and fast rules: burning off fields is against the law. A few state cities have experimented and have ruled the day. In Madison, for example, it was decreed that folks could burn off fields if they first obtained permission to do so. Result: In one day, Madison suffered from 70 fires, several of which grew out of control.

In Rural Areas

In rural areas where blazing grass is permitted, too many people use bad judgement. As in every other kind of effort, there are tricks and basic rules which ought to be heeded for starting off the big blaze.

Number One: Don't set the grass afire in a strong wind. It will burn too fast, too furiously, to be contained.

Number Two: If possible, set the grass ablaze after a light rain, or a day or two after a heavy one. The fire will be slowed and it will burn almost as completely.

Number Three: Given the fortuitous day of soft breezes and perhaps dampened grass, get set with the proper tools. Best tools are house or barn brooms. The fire can be beaten down or swept out when and where it ought to be.

It is wise, also, to have on hand an appropriate number of water-soaked burlap bags, and with sufficient quantities of water-filled buckets to re-wet the bags. These are used, very effectively, too, in beating out the flames. And have enough helping hands to control the flames if they leap out of control.

Number Four: Set a "back fire". That is, first ascertain the direction of the wind. If it is hailing in from the East, then it is wise to set a small fire on the western side of the proerty to be ripped. This back fire should run the length of the property in a strip sufficiently wide so that the flames cannot leap it and start the grass on the adjacent land. The width ought to depend upon the nature and strength of the wind. Ten feet is generally safe in a moderate wind; much more should be burned off if the wind is strong.

Number Five: For the ultimate in safety, move back into the wind a short distance, and set the fire there, from end to end. It should burn the grass to the burned off section. Helpers should be stationed along the edges of the blaze. They should contain it there, control it.

Now move back again, a reasonable distance and once again set the flames so they will burn towards the back-fired area.

The over-all idea is to keep the patches small enough to be easily handled, properly controlled. It's welcome.

Hortonville Firemen Answer Four Alarms in 10 Hours

HORTONVILLE — The Hortonville Fire Department was called out four times within 10 hours Wednesday and once Tuesday afternoon, according to Chief Lawrence Mader.

The first run was made to the Myron Reiland residence, Town of Greenville, about 7:10 a.m. where the inside of a car was burning. It is presumed a cigarette was flicked into the back seat, unnoticed, the night before. Extensive damage was done to the back seat.

The department was called to the home of Vernon Learman, Town of Ellington, at noon to extinguish a grass fire where no damage was reported and no cause as to its origin.

A fire that started in the barnyard and hit one corner of the barn on the Emil Krenke farm in the Town of Hortonville, brought the firemen out about 2:15 p.m. At 5 p.m. they were called to the Gas Grieve farm in the Town of Hortonville, where another grass fire in a field caused no damage.

At 4 p.m. on Tuesday the department was called to the Clifford Lund residence, route 2, Hortonville, Town of Greenville, where a small lumber pile and rubbish pile burned.

Car That Hit Man Stopped, Inquest Shows

Menashan Reports Three Got Out of Auto, Left Again

Evidence that an unknown car struck Theodore W. Lathrop, 23, route 2, Hortonville, March 17 as he lay injured on U.S. 45 near Hortonville, and that the car stopped briefly then left the scene was revealed in a coroner's inquest Thursday.

Coroner Bernard H. Kemps and Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer questioned four witnesses called to the inquest. There were no volunteer witnesses.

Two men, Norman Glasel, 365 Seventh St., Menasha, and Archie R. Zabel, Bear Creek, said they briefly saw the car, which apparently struck Lathrop in the head, stop for a brief moment, then hurry away from the scene. Glasel said the car stopped in front of him and perhaps three people got out of the car. He said he turned to go to Lathrop's aid and did not see the car or the people again.

Struck Body

Glasel's car also struck Lathrop's body, but according to witnesses, his car was the second to strike the man and Lathrop apparently was dead at the time. Lathrop had been tossed from his small car after it spun off the road after a two-car collision.

Zabel, a former state traffic patrolman, was the first to arrive at the scene. He attempted to go to Lathrop and help him from the road when the fast travelling car, heading east toward Appleton, struck the body. Zabel testified that Lathrop "was moving and was trying to push himself in his own lane of traffic."

Zabel said he was following the Rev. Peter N. Buenting, of Manawa, when another car attempted to pass the Buenting car and may have triggered the two car collision between Lathrop's car and the Buenting vehicle. Mr. Buenting testified, however, that he was not conscious of any car attempting to pass him just before his car and Lathrop's car collided.

Body in Road

Mr. Buenting said he did not notice several cars in the area immediately after the accident but he did not see any car strike Lathrop. He said he saw the

Marine Recruiting Station Has New Summer Schedule

The hours for the summer schedule at the Marine Corps recruiting station in Appleton will be 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturdays, according to gunnery sergeant James Palmer, the non-commissioned officer in charge of the station. These new hours will become effective immediately.

The Marine corps is now offering three and four year enlistments in addition to a unique "120-day-delay" program designed especially for high school seniors desiring to enlist now, but wanting to go on active duty after graduation.

The Marine corps recruiting office is located in the post office building in Appleton.

Appleton Youth Pleads Guilty of Being Drunk

OSHKOSH — Thomas A. Zimmerman, 19, 1311 Van Dyke St., Appleton, this morning pleaded guilty of being drunk and County Judge James Sitter set sentencing for Monday morning and ordered him jailed until then. He was arrested by Winnebago County police this morning at State 47 and W. Foster St. in the Town of Menasha.

Oshkosh Man Leaves $207,039 Estate

OSHKOSH — An estate estimated at $207,039 was left by the late David D. Krueger, an Oshkosh attorney, according to an inventory filed today with County Judge Herbert J. Mosler.

The estate included $195,539 in personal property and $1,500 in real estate.

man's body lying in the road, but did not go to it, because his foot was injured. Five other passengers in the Buenting car received injuries in the accident.

Patrolman Robert Keating of the Outagamie County traffic patrol, the investigator at the scene, testified that he received a partial description of the unknown car from two children. He said he did not inform other police to be on the lookout for the unknown car but that a bulletin on the car was sent out from the traffic patrol headquarters the following day. Keating said he did not know what time the bulletin was sent as he was not on duty at the time. (The bulletin was sent at 1:30 a.m.)

Keating said the sketchy description was that the car was a green, 1955 model station wagon. He said he did not receive any information as to how many people were in the car.

Beloit College Adopts Plan to Permit Big Enrollment Increase

Students Will Spend Part Of Study Time Off Campus

BELOIT (AP)—Beloit College has announced a new year-round study program that will permit nearly doubling the current enrollment of 1,050 without additions to the physical plant.

"The plan is realistic in terms of modern educational trends, and we believe it also economically feasible and sufficiently flexible for students and faculty," college president Dr. Milner Upton said in announcing Thursday it is hoped the first class in the program will be enrolled in the fall of 1964.

Upton, who said the plan had the approval of the faculty and trustees, added, "We are particularly hopeful that it will afford Beloit the opportunity of educating a larger share of the new numbers who will be seeking a college education during the next ten to twenty years."

As the new plan, resembling a proposal by Earl J. McGrath, former U.S. commissioner of education, comes in some things will go—including the study year fes-

New Calendar

Under terms of the new calendar, each academic year at the 116-year-old co-educational liberal arts college, will be divided into three terms of 15 weeks each. Each entering class will be required to spend three consecutive terms on the campus as "underclassmen."

The next five terms, in which the students will be known as "middleclassmen," will be spent both on and off the campus. A student will be required to spend any two of the five terms on the campus and one in approved off-campus activity.

The off-campus work will include work-study, overseas study, research, social service, or other programs tailored to fit individual objectives. The remaining two terms will be used as vacation periods.

The students will spend the final three terms on the campus as "upperclassmen."

Because of the off-campus features, the college will be able to extend its enrollment to 1,800, but no more than 1,200 students will be on the campus at any one time.

Minors Loiter in Tavern, Operator Sentenced to Jail

OSHKOSH — A 15-day county jail sentence and a fine of $150 and costs, or another 45 days in jail, were imposed by County Judge James Sitter this morning on James Blake, former operator of a tavern at 107 W. Sixth Ave., Oshkosh.

Blake was charged with two counts of allowing minors to be in his tavern on Nov. 10 and Nov. 11 of last year. The court was told Blake was not on the premises at the time and had discharged the bartenders involved. In addition, he no longer is in the tavern business but Judge Sitter ordered all such licenses held by Blake revoked.

Judge Sitter, after receiving guilty pleas from Blake this morning, said that these were charges that the court did "not take lightly."

Use of County Board Room Sought by Branch 2 Judge

OSHKOSH — Use of the County board room by County Branch 2 Judge James Sarres was requested by the judiciary committee and referred to the public building committee.

Supv. Max Carpenter, Town of Rushford, objected to using the County Board room for a court and Supv. Arthur Struensee, Oshkosh, said "it was too nice a room to let the juveniles get into and ruin." He said Manitowish County had lowered the ceilings of one of its courtrooms to provide space for another court and that Winnebago County had several high ceilinged courtrooms.

Along with use of the County Board room would be the use of its committee room for the times all courtrooms are in use, judge's chambers, the judiciary and there is no place for Judge committee suggested. Board Sarres to hear cases before him.

Ban Against Sale of Colored Oleo in State May be Dropped

MADISON (AP)—A recommendation to legalize the sale of colored oleomargarine in Wisconsin was received by the Legislature today.

It came from the Assembly's committee on commerce and manufacturers.

Minnesota is the only other state in the nation to ban the colored product and its lawmaking body completed action Thursday on a bill to end the ban.

"I think this measure has a good chance of passage," said Assemblyman Allen Flannigan, D-Milwaukee, author of the measure to lift the Wisconsin ban.

The committee recommendation for passage was by a 5-3 vote.

Under the bill a five cent per pound tax would be put on the colored product. The committee also recommended passage of a bill to repeal the 15 cent a pound tax on uncolored oleo and wipe out the license fees for selling uncolored margarine.

Allis-Chalmers Director Backs Common Mart

Admits Alliance Will Present Some Problems to U. S.

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The growing success of the European Common Market presents some short-range problems for the United States, especially the prospect of a drop in agricultural exports, Kenneth W. Haagensen, a public relations director for Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., West Allis, warned here Thursday night.

But, he said, this is no time to get into arguments about United States-European trade. Successful trade and tariff negotiations with the common market present a challenge and a great opportunity for strengthening of the free world, he related.

"Soviet Russia," Haagensen stated flatly, "doesn't want to see the common market succeed."

He spoke to 85 business representatives at the sixth annual credit clinic sponsored at the Northland Hotel here by the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan unit of the National Association of Credit Management.

The immediate threat, Haagensen related, is that the common market countries—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Netherlands and Luxembourg—may set protectionist tariffs on farm products.

He pointed out that one of six farm acres in the United States produces for export and that 25 per cent of United States agricultural exports $12 billion annually, goes to the common market countries.

tectionist features, he said, can be negotiated and added, "any show of disunity would definitely play into the hands of Russia."

Haagensen was introduced by Paul M. Jensen of Thimmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna, president of the area credit management group.

Speakers at a panel discussion on "How to Make Collections and Keep Customers" in the afternoon were Joseph W. Hruska, Marley-Murphy Co., Green Bay, H. H. Schroeder, Marathon Division of American Can Co., Menasha, and A. O. Seibert, First National Bank, Appleton.

She will attend a national board meeting at the National VFW Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich. and then go to Chicago for a 2-day planning session for the national VFW Auxiliary convention, which will be held in Seattle, Wash., in August. At the national parley, Mrs. Campbell will succeed to the presidency of the national organization.

After the Chicago meeting, she will attend a Veterans Administration Voluntary Service meeting in Washington, D.C.

Lighted Objects in Sky Attributed to Super-Speed Planes

FOND DU LAC (AP) — There have been strange maneuverings in the sky over Fond du Lac in the last week, but there may be a sound explanation after all.

Star-gazing reached a peak Wednesday night when patrons at a drive-in theater told of seeing about 20 lighted objects, sometimes in formation, race from horizon to horizon, usually in an east-west direction.

But sometimes they made sharp turns, sometimes the lights were white, sometimes crimson.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency in Milwaukee suggested the objects were super-speed planes refueling at altitudes so high the sound of the engines was lost.

The spokesman said the agency had received a series of similar reports a week earlier, established through a radar check that they were planes.

GREENFIELD MEASURED RELEASE LAWN FOOD FEEDS GRASS BOTH WAYS

QUICK GREEN
WITH FAST-ACTING NITROGEN

LONG FEED
WITH TIMED NITROGEN PARTICLES

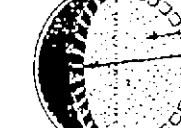

Some lawn foods just give your lawn a "quick charge" for fast greening. Others just feed grass slowly, over a longer period of time.

Now... here's a lawn food that does both these jobs, in one application! Greenfield Measured-Release Lawn Food. Part of the nitrogen in its 20-10-5 formula (20% nitrogen, 10% phosphorus, 5% potassium) is ready for immediate use. It helps your lawn grow fast, gives it a healthy, green color.

Another part of the nitrogen in Greenfield Measured-Release Lawn Food is in thousands of tiny coated particles. Moisture enters these particles and carries nitrogen out gradually, feeding your lawn for many weeks—without burning.

Don't be satisfied with one-way feeding. Apply Greenfield Measured-Release Lawn Food this weekend for both quick greening and long feeding.

Moore, Gros Head Packer List Of Replacements for Hornung

BY JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The Green Bay Packers may not have another Paul Hornung on their roster but they have capable replacements for that open halfback job in Tom Moore and possibly Earl Gros.

Vince Lombardi, addicted to the system of using two big backs, such as Jim Taylor and Hornung in the same backfield may give some thought to using Gros, a 1962 rookie fullback from Louisiana State.

The obvious replacement for Hornung, suspended indefinitely by the National Football League for betting on games is Moore.

Moore showed great speed and power and good pass catching ability. He could have been a regular with most of the teams in the NFL but had to sit on the bench in Green Bay, waiting for his chance.

Brilliant Career Gros, the Packers' No. 1 draft choice in 1961 after a brilliant career at LSU, was behind Taylor at fullback. As Taylor played most of the time, Gros did get too much chance to show his stuff. When he did get in the game, he was impressive with his power running and blocking. Braves Nip Phils, 6-5, Run Victory Streak to 7 Games

Break Tie On Misplay In Ninth

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A couple of ducks got involved in the parading of candidates in Milwaukee's left field Thursday, but the first place Braves didn't need any help in posting their seventh straight triumph.

A home run and a hunt by Norm Larker were the big blows as the Braves defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in closing out the first home stand of the season.

Polished and machine-like in winning the first six games in the string the Braves had to scramble Thursday but they made a success of that too.

The victory kept the Braves a half game in front of the San Francisco Giants as Milwaukee opened a 14 game road trip with the Mets in New York today.

Earlier meetings with the winless Mets produced the first four victories in the Braves string.

Claude Raymond, who worked only a third of an inning as Milwaukee's fifth hurler, took his second victory in as many decisions.

Larker Homers The Braves had lost leads of 2-1 and 4-2 to trail 5-4 in the bottom of the seventh. It was then that Larker drilled his first home run as a Brave to produce a tie that held until the last of the ninth.

Hank Aaron, who has regained his plate form, tipped a drive to center and when the Phillies outfielders slowed up a little on the return, roared into second with a double.

It was Larker's turn again and he rolled a bunt down the third base line. Philadelphia catcher Clay Dalrymple fouled the ball.

Tommy Davis To Rest Leg For a Week

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Batting champion Tommy Davis, who pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg March 31, was taken to a hospital Thursday night. The Los Angeles Dodgers star will stay there at least a week to give the leg complete rest.

Davis pulled the muscle while running toward the Dodger dugout after scoring a run in an exhibition game against Cincinnati at Tampa, Fla. He started five of the Dodgers' first nine games this season but the injury slowed him down considerably.

Davis led the majors last year in hitting at .346 and in runs batted in with 153.

"Live and Let Live" seemed to be the prevailing attitude in left field of Milwaukee County Stadium Thursday as outfielder Len Gabrielson went his way and two ducks went theirs. After a short time, the ducks disappeared into "fowl" territory. Gabrielson stayed around and helped the Braves win, 6-5.

Balk Calls Prove Decisive as Giants Defeat Houston, 6-3

Cubs Take 5-1 Victory Over Don Drysdale

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

How long is a second? This long.

This Long? That's the problem plaguing necked pitchers and managers trying to find some sort of yardstick for measuring a second in an attempt to halt the mushrooming number of balk calls disrupting action in National League games.

Balk calls may have been the decisive factor for the first time Thursday as Willie Mays was waved home from third base twice in San Francisco's 6-3 victory over Houston. In all five balks were called in the game.

One balk was called at Milwaukee where the Braves retained first place with their seventh straight victory, 6-5 over Philadelphia and one was charged at St. Louis where Pittsburgh edged the Cardinals 3-2. No balks were called as the Chicago Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 in the only other game scheduled.

Change Patterns

The way they're calling balks said Colts Manager Harry Craft, the pitchers will have to change their entire patterns. I wish there was some consistency, added Craft, who previously had questioned how an umpire can determine a second without a stop watch.

The three balks called on Houston pitchers in the game and the against Giants' starter Jack Sanford made a total of 11 for the three game series in which Eugene Donatelli's umpiring team strictly enforced the rule requiring a pitcher to pause a full second before delivery.

Sanford, who won his third with a six-hitter for his second complete game, mused, "I stopped that second time. I know I did. Then as it is in resignation against a judgement play on which there is no appeal, he added, "I know. I waited long enough. This isn't right."

Including the two balks called in other games, 39 have been charged in less than two weeks of the season. Donatelli's crew has called 20. The major league record is 76 set in 1960. There still has not been a balk called in American League games.

The Giants led 3-2 going into the fifth inning. Mays opened with a double moved to third on a balk call and eventually scored the decisive run on another balk call both charged to reliever Russ Kemmerer. Mays then scored in the seventh on a balk call. Mays Willie McCovey and Felipe Alou tied a 12th attack each collecting a double and two singles. George Brunet took the loss.

Bill Vinton drove in his second.

NOTES and NOTIONS

Though the Paul Hornung transgression is perhaps the most lamentable individual episode in the long illustrious history of the Green Bay Packers it won't cause any panic button pressing among Packers coaches, players or knowledgeable fans.

The Bays last year proved in over half their games (that Hornung either missed or in which he saw only token duty) that they could win without the ace halfback. Looking at this incident from a reasonable perspective the team's welfare and prospects must get top priority. No single player (not even a star of Hornung's magnitude) is bigger than the team or the league. To the casual observer, or headline scanner, Hornung may have appeared to be a 1 man team — in view of his 33-point and 28 point performances at times. The avid fan, however, knows that the 10 other Packers who were on the field at the same time Hornung was helped make it all possible. And last year, when Tom Moore started a good share of the games after Hornung's injury, the title march was not slowed. Though Moore probably can't do as many things as Hornung (and some of the Packers wins weren't quite as one-sided with him in there) he's a star in his own right and a player almost every other club in the NFL would like to have. In a way, then, Hornung's injury last October may have been a blessing in disguise. There's no longer any guesswork involved in whether the Bays can win without their most publicized performer. Of course, it would hardly be realistic to say that Vince Lombardi should be joyful over this development. It must be remembered that Jim Taylor — the other half of the original 1-2 punch — will be a question-mark (because of his recent illness) until he actually experiences the rigors of carrying the ball through tough as nails defensive units.

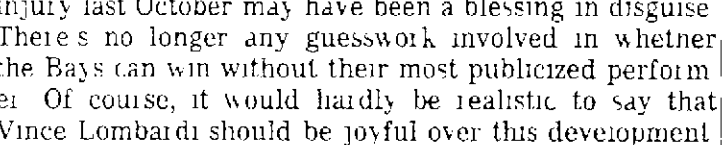

Earl Gros Is Waiting for His Chance

If Taylor can no longer take the pounding as of old a greater share of the load will fall to Earl Gros, who is waiting in the wings for his big chance. For added insurance behind Moore the Packers have the speedy Elijah Pitts and may even reverse their plans of making a defensive back out of Bob Jeter. There was a widespread feeling — which in retrospect seems pretty credible — that Lombardi didn't play Hornung as much as he might have after Paul had apparently recovered from his knee injury in November. Could Vince have suspected something even then?

After all, Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the league had

Braves Leave On Extended Road Trip

Face First 'Critical' Test of Season, Says Manager Bragan

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee's Braves, a surprising first in the National League with a seven game winning string, hit the road today in what Manager Bobby Bragan says is the first critical test of the season.

The first extended tour for the Braves includes their initial appearances in the camps of the favorites—the San Francisco Giants, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

"That's when we'll get a real shot at proving our merit," said Bragan, looking ahead cautiously but still optimistically.

It's a long season," he said, and added, "But this is a good defensive club which does not give any runs away. So far it has been a combination of good starting and relief pitching, a terrific defense and excellent clutch hitting by Hank Aaron, Ed Matthews, Frank Bolling and others."

Larker Strong Man

Included among the others is Norm Larker, the strong man in Thursday's seventh straight victory, a 6-5 decision over Philadelphia. He socked his first home run to pull the Braves into a tie in the seventh, then hunted behind some aggressive base running by Hank Aaron to send in the deciding run in the ninth.

Bragan reacted to the performance by saying that Larker would be stationed at first wherever the opposition sends a right hander to the mound.

Norm's a clutch player," Bragan said, and pressure doesn't bother him.

Larker, a former Dodger and Houston Colt, said, "I can help this club. I don't have as much power as Joe Adcock (first baseman traded to Cleveland in the winter) but I can do an adequate job. This is an ideal ball park for me. The way I spray my hits."

Looking to the road trip Bragan said, "I won't be satisfied with less than 500 ball. We could have more than that the way we've been playing."

White Sox, Twins Both Carve Out 3 to 0 Victories

Ray Herbert and Dick Stigman Hurl Nearly Identical 3-Hitters

BY WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The early returns are in on baseball's enlarged strike zone, and they come as no great surprise—the pitchers love it and the hitters are demanding a recount.

With the major league season less than two weeks old, the game—for a change—is showing some mercy for the long oppressed men who earn their living on the mound. It's no longer a batter's paradise.

In the only two games played in the American League Thursday, pitchers carved out almost identical three-hit, 3-0 shutouts.

That was the margin of veteran Ray Herbert's victory for the Chicago White Sox over the Kansas City Athletics. Dick Stigman of the Minnesota Twins duplicated the feat in beating the Los Angeles Angels, also 3-0.

Shutouts aren't a rarity this early in the season when pitchers and threw it into left field as Aaron chased for home with the final run. Larker was credited with a hit, and Darymple with an error on the throw, so the run was unearned.

Bob Hendley and Art Mahaffey were the starters, and each was roughed up in the first inning. Philadelphia got one run on a single for Tony Taylor, an infield out, a walk for Johnny Callison and a single by Roy Sievers.

Singles by Ty Cline, Aaron and Mathews produced the first Milwaukee run. Aaron got to third and Mathews went to second when a pickoff throw by Mahaffey went into center field. Larker was walked intentionally to fill the bases, and after Len Gabrielson flied out, Joe Torre walked, forcing in the second run.

The Phillies tied it on Earl Averill's single in the third, but Milwaukee got two in the fourth on Roy McMillan's double, a single by Hendley and Ruken Amaro's error on Frank Bolling's roller.

The Phils bunched three runs in the sixth. Wes Covington's triple sending in two and Taylor's sacrifice fly scoring Covington with the third.

10-Man Squad Will Feature 3 Lettermen

The Lawrence College golf team, featuring three lettermen, will open its season Saturday morning in a double dual meet at Green Lake's Tuscumbia course. The Vikes face Ripon and Knox.

Carey Wickland, who placed 10th in the Midwest Conference meet in 1962, will play at the No. 1 position. The No. 2 man will be John Alton, who was 18th in last year's conference test. Herb Weber will be the Vikes' No. 3 player.

Appleton sophomore Eric Schulenburg appears to have the edge for the No. 4 position. Almost any of the remaining candidates could qualify for the No. 5 spot, according to Coach Bernie Heselt.

The other squad members are junior Clem Herschel, a sopho Ralph Hartley, Harley Holt, Jim Lynum, Kent Neika and Bob Kadarauch.

Heseltson characterized the squad as the best all-around unit the Vikes have had for some time. A good season is in prospect—especially if the No. 1 man could shoot consistently in the low 70s.

Rozelle's Decisive Action Should Benefit Pro Football

heard rumors about Hornung's betting in the spring of '62 and began its probe. Rozelle said Hornung wasn't questioned directly on the matter until January, 1963, when enough evidence was in hand.

Is the severity of the penalties on Hornung and Detroit's Alex Karras justified? Almost everyone—including Hornung—agrees it was justified. The decisive action by Rozelle can't help but have salutary effects: Players undoubtedly will be deterred for some time from following in the offenders' footsteps and fans' confidence in pro football won't be undermined. What prompted Hornung to defy the league code and bet on games and transmit information that could be used by gamblers? That remains a mystery—especially in view of his financial status (probably the top all-around money-maker in pro football) and his glamorous gridiron reputation. Either he wasn't using common sense or he felt that a super-star can flaunt authority and convention. What about Hornung's future? No one can make even a reasonable guess at this time. Perhaps he can be reinstated for the '64 season—and certainly his admission of guilt and subdued acceptance of the consequences should be in his favor when a review of the case comes up. If he is reinstated, will the year's layoff take the edge off his one time great form? If he is allowed to play again will it be as a Packer—or will Lombardi feel it's in the club's best interests to trade or relinquish all rights to Hornung? Will fans forgive and forget or will the "Golden Boy" image take on a permanent tarnish? Only time will tell. I've always admired Hornung as a player—but though not necessarily his extra-curricular activities—and hope the future will be kind to him.

Boys who will not reach their 19th birthdays before Sept. 1, 1963, will be eligible for the team. There is no age minimum. The roster will be open to boys who live in Appleton, those who live elsewhere but got to school in Appleton and those who live in another city which has no Legion program.

Bob Beltrone, the head coach and general manager, indicates that this will be the only registration. All prospects, even those who played on last year's team, must register. Bob Weyenberg will again be the assistant manager and coach.

For the last two years, Appleton has finished second to Clintonville in its division of the Fox Valley Legion League. In 1962, Appleton won its final four games to gain second place.

Tryouts will begin with indoor sessions. Outdoor work will not begin until the middle of May.

The Appleton team plans a schedule of about 25 games and may go to Ft. Williams, Canada, for an exhibition game, Beltrone reports.

The enlarged strike zone will be used in Legion games this season.

Toronto Wins Coveted NHL Stanley Cup Again

TORONTO (AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, so mighty they can score while outnumbered and win easily with their top goal-getter shackled, have started a new Stanley Cup dynasty in the National Hockey League.

Toronto roared through the playoffs with only two losses in 10 games without a single goal by Frank Mahovlich, a 36-goal man in the regular season.

The Leafs mixed their power with a little bit of luck Thursday night for a 3-1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings in the clinching game. Toronto won the coveted trophy for the second straight year by romping through the best-of-7 final series 4-1. The Leafs earlier eliminated Montreal 4-1 in the semifinals.

Scores Twice

Dave Keon scored twice in the clincher while Toronto played short-handed with a man in the penalty box. And Eddie Shack put in the deciding goal and didn't even know it.

Shack's goal came in the final seven minutes and broke a 1-1 tie. The play that won $2,000 for each Leaf started on Kent Douglas' shot from the blue line. The puck hit two players before reaching Shack.

He looked around puzzled when his teammates raised their sticks high as the red light flashed. "Oh, I don't know how it hap-

Lawrence '9' To Face Beloit

Twin Bill Will be First Conference Action for Both

The Lawrence College baseball team will open the Midwest Conference campaign Saturday with a doubleheader at Beloit.

Coach Don Boya's Vikings have dropped non-conference games to Oshkosh State and St. Norbert. The Titans downed Lawrence 10-3 and St. Norbert took a 3-0 win.

Beloit has played two games, both with the University of Chicago, and the Bucs have won one and dropped one.

Buc Starters

John Lind hurled the victory for the Bucs and will start the opening game against the Vikes. The starter for the second tilt will be Mike Judy.

Bob Mueller will probably start for Lawrence in the first game and sophomore Bill Prange (of Menasha) will get the nod in the second tilt. Bob Lane, Jim Gamb and Paul Clark will be in reserve should either starter get into trouble.

Other starters for the Vikes will include Dave Robinson, first base; John Harwood, second; Bill Heilmann, shortstop and Tim Knabe, third base. Outfielders will be Bob Dude, Mike O'Neill and either Mueller or Prange, depending on who is doing the pitching. Bill Hobbins will be the catcher.

WHY WE CARRY GANT

We believe that Gant shirts have a certain well-bred look that distinguishes them from all others. Careful tailoring and adherence to a strict tradition are qualities indigenous to Gant. The emphasis here is on meticulous detail in a heritage of conservatism.

Do you like a really neat, well fitting collar? Solidly flared collar construction is gently RIGHT. Do you want to hang your shirt up? A trim hanger loop sews to that. Room to breathe? Oversize body construction is the answer. There's a full length box pleat back for trimness, too. Precise stitching lets the easy barrel cuffs roll up at mid-point.

The Gant shirt has been designed to serve you through a lifetime of correct dressing. There is painstaking workmanship in every fine Gant shirt... it comes from the expert craft of New England's finest shirtmakers. The craft explains why the careful details of these Gant shirts have been many times imitated but never duplicated.

Nicklaus One Stroke Behind

Trails Tommy Aaron After First Round Of Houston Classic

HOUSTON (AP)—Tommy Aaron, a young golfer who left Gainesville to live in Gainesville, held a one-stroke lead over Masters champion Jack Nicklaus at the start of the second round of the $50,000 Houston Classic today.

Nine others, including Gary Player, were four strokes off the pace set by the 1960 Western Amateur champion.

Aaron, a Gainesville, Ga., native, who now calls Gainesville, Fla., his home, took the lead Thursday with six birdies for a 6-under-par 64 in the first round as three tournament records were tied despite a 20 mile per hour wind.

Five Birdies

The 31-33-64 tailored by the former University of Florida started the first round record set by Jimmy Clark in 1951. Nicklaus' 30-35-65 for the 7,021-yard, par 70 Memorial Park course included five birdies that tied the front nine record set by Walter Burkemo in 1954.

Jerry Steelsmith, who, like Aaron, is considered one of the pro tours most promising newcomers, took a 36-31-67, tying a back nine record set by Jerry Barber in 1955.

The first round saw Kermit Zarley, the NCAA champion from the University of Houston, take over third place with a 33-33-66, the highest position an amateur has held on the 1963 PGA tour.

Steelsmith and three others were tied with 67s while Player headed a four-way tie at 68.

Tied with Steelsmith at 67 were Bob Charles of New Zealand, Jack Fleck, former National Open champion, and Charles Sifford, Los Angeles.

RENO, Nev.—Don Fullmer, 167, West Jordan, Utah, outplayed Eddie Andrews, 161, Reno, 10.

BOISE, Idaho—Bill McCumby, Sacramento, Calif., outplayed Johnny Lynch Collins, Boise, heavyweights.

Banquet Speaker Says Sports Require 'A Great Sacrifice'

"Three ingredients are necessary for success in sports," Stout State College basketball coach Duwayne Mintz stated at the Fox Valley Lutheran High School athletic banquet Thursday night.

Summing up the key to success in "Three S's," Mintz asserted that sacrifice, superior effort and spirit of savagery, or competitive attitude, will be found on every championship team.

The former mentor of Bethany College of Mankato, Minn. (whose prep team is a traditional FVL opponent) said that sports require "a great sacrifice," but are "also a great privilege."

Mintz cited the world of sports as "one of the best areas . . . in which leaders are developed."

Serving as master of ceremonies for the affair (which honored FVL freshman, junior varsity, and varsity athletes in football, basketball, and track) was Herb Wilde, athletic director of Emanuel Lutheran Grade School of New London.

Also speaking were Biss Kiss, assistant sports director of radio station WHBY; coaches Dave Umrus and Gerry Kaniess; football co-captain Larry Gorges; track captain Bruce Killge; basketball captain Verlyn Dohberstein; and cheerleading captain Yvonne Huebner.

Kiss praised FVL for its "tremendous school spirit," while the others commented on the football, basketball, track, or cheerleading.

Glen Hobbie who had lost five in a row to the Dodgers, won it with ninth inning relief help from Don Elston. The deciding run scored in the second as Ken Aspromonte doubled and scored on a single by Dick Bertell when left fielder Ron Fairly bobbled the ball.

Few Users of Steel Plan Early Markups

Construction Industry May Be Exception

BY ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP)—Few manufacturers of steel-using items plan early markups on their products as a result of the selective price increases by steelmaking suppliers.

Most of them still are mulling over the situation or seeking more information, a spot check by The Associated Press across the country showed today.

The construction industry appeared a possible exception.

J. J. Buckley, executive vice president of the Youngstown Steel Door Co., estimated the steel price rise will cause an increase of about two per cent in his company's prices.

In New Brunswick, N.J., Triangle Conduit & Cable Co. served notice of an indirect price rise on steel conduit used to enclose electrical wiring in buildings.

Fewer Bridges

In Atlanta, Georgia's Highway Department director, Jim Gillis, said "the steel price increase will mean fewer bridges. We have just so much money."

Automakers, who use about a ton of steel per vehicle, had nothing to say but informed estimates placed the increase in manufacturing costs attributable to the steel price rise at from $25 to $50 per car.

Sources in Detroit said they expect no change in price tags on 1963 models. What will happen when 1964 models start rolling this fall is a matter of speculation, they said.

Appliance Makers

In Chicago and elsewhere, some big appliance makers said they are studying the situation and have reached no decisions.

North American Aviation's Columbus, Ohio division was one of several companies reporting sizable steel reserves on hand, but a spokesman said he didn't foresee much effect even after reserves are used up.

In Los Angeles, W. M. Rawlins, president of Central Industrial Engineering, a construction firm, said the steel price rise left his company "in quite a spot."

"We have some contracts running for a couple of years and had no protection on them for an occurrence like this," Rawlins said.

In U.S. Steel Corp.'s price rise announcement Tuesday, Leslie B. Worthington, president, discounted the likelihood of significant re-

U.S. Steps Up Watch Over Caribbean

Patrols Keep Tabs on All Cargo, Passenger Ships Departing Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. patrol planes and ships have intensified their watchfulness over Caribbean waters between Cuba and Central and South America, it was learned today.

These patrols, including some aircraft operating out of the Panama Canal Zone, keep tabs on all cargo and passenger type ships outbound from Cuba.

Of particular interest are 18 Soviet built trawlers believed operated by the Cubans. The Navy makes it its business to know where these are at all times.

When it is determined a ship may be heading for Latin America, the government concerned is notified. Thus, that government would be in position to send its own naval forces to halt any vessel suspected of carrying arms or men or to ask for U.S. aid.

The Navy is especially alert for any concentrations of shipping in Cuban harbors, indicating an armed expedition might be gathering.

Plenty of Time

Authorities feel it would be virtually impossible for any kind of a serious military threat to be mounted from Cuba without being spotted in plenty of time to be intercepted.

The major problem lies in halting any Cuban subversives who might be tricked into Latin America aboard small craft.

There are literally thousands of fishing boats roaming the Caribbean and it is beyond Navy resources to check on all or even the bulk of them, sources said.

There is mounting evidence that the fleet and U.S. air elements arrayed in the Caribbean area would take forceful action if Fidel Castro's Soviet-equipped forces, with or without the help of Soviet troops in Cuba, made any overt move against Central or South America.

State Okayed To Take Part In N. Y. Fair

Bill Had to Fight Heavy Opposition By Democrats

MADISON (AP)—The State Senate has passed a bill authorizing Wisconsin participation in the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

Although the World's Fair project won an easy 26-4 victory in a late session Thursday, it had to overcome stubborn resistance of Democratic senators. They insisted that Senate rules prevent passage of such bills before the state budget is adopted, unless accompanied by a clause declaring it to be an emergency measure.

The bill creates a 16-member commission, headed by Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, which would direct state participation in the fair. No state funds are involved, but the commission would seek private contributions which individuals could then deduct from their income taxes.

Cut Revenue

Sen. Fred Risser, D-Madison, pointed out that this deductibility in effect reduces state revenue. The Republican-controlled Senate thereupon tacked on a clause declaring an emergency and the bill passed. Voting against it, in addition to Risser, were Milwaukee Democrats Richard Zaborski, Charles Schmidt and Casimir Kendziorski.

Olson has preliminary plans for an exhibit hall with wings to house products of Wisconsin manufacturers, the dairy industry, and resort and recreation promotions. It is estimated $500,000 will be needed to finance the project.

Small Minority Blamed

A defense ministry communiqué said the latest plot was being fomented by a small minority involved in psychological warfare to offset their previous defeat.

The interior ministry reported earlier that seven advisers of deposed President Arturo Frondizi had been arrested and charged with plotting a Communist revolution. It said eight others were being sought.

President Jose Maria Guido, reported ill, conferred at length with the military chiefs at his suburban home.

There has been speculation that the new government policy contemplates further curbs on the powerful Peronist vote. It is known that military circles are still split over the Peronist issue, basic cause of the 13-month-old Argentine crisis.

However, Rauch said that no further tightening of restrictions on supporters of former dictator Juan D. Peron was contemplated. The Peronists supposedly will be allowed a limited role in the June elections for president and congress.

Jury Thinks Parents Of Delinquents Should Visit Juvenile Home

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The Fayette County Grand Jury thinks parents of delinquent children would give their youngsters better supervision if they visited Kentucky Village, the state correctional home for juveniles.

In a report Thursday, the jury recommended that juvenile court require parents of delinquents to visit the home before their children commit a wrongdoing that would require their confinement.

Whites Control S. Rhodesia

U. S. Expects Uprising Soon in British Colony

BY STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials believe violence will erupt soon in the British colony of Southern Rhodesia, but they don't expect another Algeria.

All signs, officials say, point to trouble for the colony now controlled by 220,000 white settlers living among 3.6 million Africans.

The white settlers governing since 1923, have demanded independence from Britain. Africans oppose independence unless control of the government is put in their hands.

"If Britain gives Southern Rhodesia independence or if the white settlers declare themselves independent," Ndabani Sithole, African nationalist leader said in a Washington speech last week, "then we have no alternative than to declare ourselves independent."

This would mean a full-scale war.

Plastic Bombs

Officials here expect African nationalists, particularly the younger nationalists, to use a limited number of guns, Molotov cocktails, and plastic bombs in their fight for control of Southern Rhodesia. The State Department also has received unconfirmed reports of nationalists studying techniques of guerrilla warfare in Tanganyika, Ghana, and Czechoslovakia.

But, for three reasons, officials say, they don't expect the full-scale war that Sithole predicted: 1. The African nationalists, more moderate than nationalists elsewhere on the continent, have no stomach for an Algerian-type civil war.

2. Power lies with the white settlers, who could use 35,000 police and reserves, and a 14,000-man army to quell an uprising.

Face Opposition

3. African nationalists could not count on a flow of arms across Southern Rhodesia's borders. The colony is bounded by South Africa, Portuguese Mozambique, British Bechuanaland—all sure to oppose any African nationalist uprising—and Northern Rhodesia.

The problem reached a head recently when Britain, in effect, approved the breakup of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. This federation comprises Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, and African nationalists long have opposed it, seeing it as no more than a device to put all three British territories under the control of Southern Rhodesia's white settlers.

Officials here say the United States is trying to convince Britain to use all its resources—moral influence, financial pressure, nominal control over defense—to make sure that Southern Rhodesia does not gain independence without guarantees that there will be eventual African control of the government.

Dog Aids in Capture of Its Master

LOWELL, Mass. (AP)—Man's best friend has turned out to be a stool pigeon, Lowell police said Thursday.

It all started Tuesday night when police received a report of a stolen car. Officer James P. Tsaffarai spotted the car and as he approached it, three boys fled.

Tsaffarai said he found a dog inside the car. He returned the car to the owner, who lived nearby, but was told the dog didn't belong there.

The dog was taken to the Humane Society overnight and released late Wednesday. Tsaffarai, riding in a cruiser, followed the dog as it headed for downtown Lowell.

The dog came upon a group of boys on a street corner, jumped up on one of the boys and was greeted lovingly.

Tsaffarai called the boy aside for questioning.

Two 12-year-olds and a 16-year-old are due to appear in juvenile court in connection with the theft.

Jackie Won't Order New Maternity Wear

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy is frugally planning to make use of maternity clothes she already owns, the White House reported today.

She wore them when she was expecting her son, John Jr., born Nov. 25, 1960. She is expecting another child in August.

Asked where Mrs. Kennedy would get her maternity clothes, her press secretary, Pamela Turnure, said Thursday the First Lady is ordering nothing new and will use things she already has.

45,000 Italian Doctors End Their Boycott

Medicos Protested Fees Paid Under Insurance Setup

ROME (AP)—Government mediation ended today a week-old boycott of medical insurance agencies by 45,000 Italian doctors. The doctors' non-cooperation strike provoked demonstrations that turned into riots in the city of Taranto.

Negotiators agreed on an immediate 40 per cent increase in fees for the doctors and negotiations to revise fee schedules and simplify the insurance forms the doctors must fill out.

Labor Minister Virginio Bertin met with the negotiators for the final six hours of talks.

Eighty per cent of Italy's 50 million people, including almost the entire labor force, is covered by some kind of health insurance. In addition to wanting more money, the doctors said the forms they had to fill out for the agencies were too involved and time consuming.

48 Cents for Office Call

The doctors averaged 300 lire (48 cents) for an office visit and double that for a house call. Officially they asked $2.40 for an office treatment and $4.80 for a house call.

To press their demands, doctors first refused to fill in most of the blanks. Then they treated patients only for cash and refused to send in the insurance forms at all.

The row sparked a 24-hour dock strike at Naples and two days of rioting in the south Italian port of Taranto.

Demonstrators in Taranto tried Wednesday to march to the local headquarters of a major health insurance agency. Police stopped them and fighting broke out.

More rioting erupted Thursday in Taranto. Police in the city of 180,000 had to use tear gas for the second successive day to restore order. Six policemen were hurt and 10 demonstrating workers were arrested.

Taranto's doctors agreed to treat insured patients without charging them.

Tito Will Serve as President for Life

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito will not stand for election to the new Parliament in June, it was announced Thursday. The Socialist Alliance of Working Peoples, the Communist dominated mass organization said that under the new constitution Tito will serve for life as president and ceases to be a member of Parliament.

Italy Will Build Foundation Under Leaning Tower of Pisa

PISA, Italy (AP)—The Leaning Tower of Pisa will get a $3.2 million lot lifting during the next four years—to keep the lean right where it is.

Engineers and geologists fear that otherwise the tower, increasing its tilt by a quarter-inch every 10 years, may become the toppling tower by the year 2100.

Letterio Donato of the University of Pisa civil engineering faculty outlined an elaborate stabilization project at the end of a recent survey.

Donato made a series of subterranean soundings with electronic equipment a few years ago.

UW Buys Fruit Experiment Plot

Strawberry, Apple Research Will be Conducted at Sturgeon Bay Site

STURGEON BAY — Strawberry and apple research will be conducted on the 20-acre tract purchased by the state this spring as an addition to the Peninsula Branch Experiment Station here. The land actually has been part of the experimental farm operation since 1958, when it was leased from Anton Today with a five-year option to buy. It rounds out the farm to three forties, or 120 acres.

Approval of the purchase by the University of Wisconsin was granted by the State Building Commission on the recommendation of Rudolph K. Froker, dean and director of the College of Agriculture and Extension Service. He said the expanded research program will be important for the economy of the area.

"Strawberries and apples are two excellent complementary crops to cherries, which is the principal fruit grown in Door County," Dean Froker pointed out.

Local Contributions

Part of the $8,000 purchase price will be met by local contributions, according to Froker. He said the Door County Fruit Growers Cooperative has pledged $1,000 in three annual installments beginning this year. The Peninsula

Berry Growers Association has contributed $200.

The experiment station branch has received valuable local help in the past. Froker stated. The Door County Board appropriated $1,500 in 1954 to improve the parking lot and farm roads. In 1959 the county paid $1,054 to install roads and conservation practices on the 20 acres then being rented from Today.

A conservation guide for the 20 acres was worked out by Ray Hoague, Door County work unit conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. The Agricultural

Timber Producers Alarmed at New Tax Law Threat

Forest Products May No Longer Come Under Capital Gains

BY RAY PAGEL
Chicago Daily News Service

Timber and pulpwood producers of Wisconsin and the rest of the nation are alarmed about a new threat to the forests.

Their concern is being echoed by governors, state legislators, forestry schools, professional foresters and conservation authorities.

The new threat is represented by the tax collector.

Capital Gains

Congress is being prodded to discontinue the present capital gains treatment of income from the cutting or disposal of timber. The secretary of the treasury has recommended that such profits be taxed at the much higher rates imposed upon ordinary income.

Fighting Secretary Douglas Dillon's request, the American Forestry Association has declared:

"The proposed drastic changes in federal income tax would seriously affect the timber industry and eliminate the incentive that has done so much to restore our forest resources to a high level of productivity."

Timber producers remember the situation that prevailed prior to 1944. This is how it was portrayed by the American Forestry Association in a recent bulletin:

1944 Situation

"Reforestation and conservation were lagging. There were clear signs on the horizon that we were headed for a timber famine if something wasn't done . . . Landowners had virtually no incentive to plant or seed new trees. They had even less incentive for orderly cutting of timber for sustained yield."

Through the capital gains provision of 1944, and subsequent revision, timber producers were re-

Waupaca 4-H Club Wins Honor

The Willing Workers 4-H Club in Waupaca County has been awarded recognition as one of the ten Honor Safety Clubs in Wisconsin by the State 4-H Club office in Madison, according to Eugene G. Hoyer, Waupaca County 4-H club agent.

The general leader of the club, Mrs. Clarence Regel, Weyauwega, and two members of the club have been invited to go on a safety trip to Milwaukee.

The top Safety Club in the state is the Twin Valley 4-H of Washburn County. The club will have its entire membership on the safety trip. Other clubs in the state among the top ten Safety clubs are Longwood Center 4-H, Clark County; Kegonsa Hurlers, Dane; Decatur 4-H, Green County; River Valley Workers, Green Lake; Brush Creek Knowledge Seekers, Richland; Consolidated, Rock County; Pleasant Pals, Taylor; and the Saratogians, Wood County.

The trip is scheduled for May 3, and 4. Allis-Chalmers, of Milwaukee, will be host to the state group for dinner.

Other highlights of the trip will include a visit to the Braves stadium, Mitchell Field, a radio-TV station, the Milwaukee museum and zoo, and other attractions.

Woodlawn 4-H Hears Talks by Two Members

Diane Lecker spoke on safety in electricity, and Cheryl Spiegel talked on physical fitness at the last meeting of the Woodlawn 4-H Club, conducted at the Earl Lecker home.

Ernest Paltzer, Mike Lecker, Donna Evilsizor and Patty Remmel were named to the picnic committee.

Farm Bureau Head to Speak on Referendum

Friday, April 19, 1963 Appleton Post-Crescent 2

Charles B. Shuman Expected to Ask for 'No' Vote During Sheboygan Falls Address

The man who has been referred to as "America's most powerful farmer" is scheduled to appear at Sheboygan Falls for a Farm Bureau-planned event on May 8. Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau and an Illinois grain and beef farmer, will appear here as the main speaker at the invitation of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Women, a group holding its conference in Sheboygan this year. Major publications and other public media have held up Shuman as the shining pillar of strength in the Farm Bureau's opposition to the secretary of agriculture's wheat certificate proposal coming up for a referendum vote May 21. Eligible farmers growing less than 15 acres of wheat must register in person not later than May 14. Those choosing to register by mail must have their letter post-dated anytime before midnight May 15.

"No" Vote

The Farm Bureau has been calling for a "no" vote in the wheat referendum. It is expected that Shuman will stress the importance of rejecting the wheat certificate plan in his talk.

The Farm Bureau has held all along that the basic issue in the wheat referendum is whether the farms of America are to be managed by farmers or a government bureaucracy.

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau has been actively encouraging eligible wheat-growing farmers to vote "no." Main reason for the Wisconsin activity is the Bureau fear that if the wheat certificate plan is approved, the favorable vote would give a great boost to the administration's efforts to expand the Cochrane-Freeman philosophy of "supply-management" to other commodities, one of which would be milk.

Wheat farmers approved the 1963 wheat program by a 2 per cent margin of votes. An issue during 1962 was a much less stringent program than is currently being proposed.

Current sentiment has it that farmers voting "no" will win the election. The Bureau cites two reasons: First is the slim margin by which the 1962 program was carried, and second, this year's program is far more stringent than was the 1962 proposal.

The Bureau is attempting to convince all eligible voters to register first (up to and including May 14th) and then vote "no" in the referendum.

Hilbert Farmers Will Continue Raising Peas

HILBERT — Hilbert area farmers will be planting peas this year despite the closing of the Valders Canning Co. plant here.

The mobile type viners employed by the Green Giant packing company out of its Rosendale plant has enabled the farmers to again contract for acreage of the cash crop. A field man from the firm has been contracting area farmers during recent weeks, several reported, and is offering contracts with the Green Giant Company.

Official acreage totals are not available but it is rumored that the area acreage may even exceed the 600 to 800 planted annually when the local plant was operating.

4-H Club to Donate To Student Fund

SEYMOUR — Golden Rule 4-H Club members have decided to donate to the Seymour foreign exchange student fund.

Lloyd Eggert, Kaukauna, reported on the Green Bay Chamber of Commerce dinner for FFA and FHA members. Talks were given by David Krahn, Rosemary Ver Voost, and Vicky Court. A demonstration was given by James and Donald Krahn.

The next meeting will be at 8:15 p.m., May 2, at the Marvin Krahn home. Talks or demonstrations will be given by Judy Lerum, Randy Lerum, Marlin Nelson and Dwayne Schneekloth.

Church Conference

BLACK CREEK — The quarterly conference will be at Black Creek Methodist Church for both the Seymour and Black Creek Churches at 8 p.m. Monday. There will be election of officers. The Pastoral Relations Committee will meet at 7:30 p.m.

Clintonville 4-H Club Making Tray Favors

CLINTONVILLE — Members of the Pleasant Hill 4-H Club will make favors for the two rest homes and the local hospital as part of their community service work.

At the meeting of the club Monday night at the home of Mrs. George Hoffman, the club's music director, the members received their 4-H record books and program materials.

The club chorus rehearsed numbers in preparation for the district music festival at Wausau. Jan Hilliker was the accompanist.

Two music groups of the club placed first in the county competition, which made them eligible for district competition.

Wisconsin's Health

Milk Consumption Lacking For Many Residents of State

BY CARL N. NEUPERT, M. D., United States Senate described the statement that Wisconsin milk as "that delightful substance which comes out of the wonder-akin to the old saying about hauling coal to Newcastle. The statement, however, is true. The need is not one of production, but rather of consumption.

With almost as many dairy cows as there are people in Wisconsin, it is quite obvious that there is no need to haul milk into our state. The problem is that Wisconsinites are not taking full advantage of this abundant health-giving food.

An expression that has been used often and one that should be repeated often, is this: Milk is nature's most nearly perfect food. Milk has achieved this place of prominence on the housewife's grocery list because it meets more of our basic nutritional needs than any other one single source. And its cost continues to be one of the shoppers' biggest bargains.

18 Billion Pounds

Wisconsin's dairymen last year produced in excess of 18 billion pounds of milk. We are truly the "Dairy State"; the leading milk-producing state in the leading milk-producing country. In view of these facts, it is indeed dismaying to look at the figures and find that our consumption is well below the minimum need.

Growing children need at least a quart of milk daily — adults at least a pint. It is obvious from our marketing records that we in Wisconsin fall quite a way below this daily average.

Chauncey M. DePew in one of his famous addresses to the ful chemistry which God has given the cow for the delight of the world and the sustenance of children. We would agree with DePew as far as he goes, but we would add "for the sustenance of adults" as well.

Instead of coffee on your next break, make it grade A pasteurized milk — and make it a habit. Your health will be glad you did.

Plans Made to Rekindle Interest In 'Arbor Day' Activities in State

The year was 1855 J. Sterling Morton was opportunity Here was challenge Morton had reached his 23rd birthday The native New Yorker now a resident of Michigan turned his eyes to the West Here

The place Nebraska City Nebraska The man J. Sterling Morton a restless man with a flair for the dramatic publisher of the Nebraska City News

The time 1872 The man J. Sterling Morton territorial legislator territorial governor, Secretary of Agriculture under President Grover Cleveland The idea Arbor Day a day to honor the stately tree

Old Idea

Morton's idea of an Arbor Day was not new In 1869 an Easterner B. G. Northrop secretary of the Connecticut Board of Education first suggested setting aside a certain day for the planting of trees Perhaps the abundance of trees in Connecticut kept Northrop's dream from reaching fruition but the seeds he planted took root in Nebraska in the person of Morton took root in a state that lacked trees in any considerable numbers

Morton concerned himself with the idea while homesteading He knew trees would better conditions for those who might ultimately come West They would serve as windbreaks and conserve moisture They would make living better

Morton pursued his idea relentlessly In 20 years Nebraskans had planted 100,000 acres of trees The Nebraska State Board of Agriculture set April 10, 1872 as Arbor Day Later it was changed to April 22 to honor the birthdate of the man with the dream It was declared a legal holiday in Nebraska and still is

As successful as Morton was in his campaign to plant trees in his adopted state his philosophy of Arbor Day was not original

Economic Necessity

Tree planting was practiced in Europe as long as 300 years ago principally as an economic necessity In some countries such as Austria the government owned all of the trees Citizens were able to secure a tree stump for burning only if the planted two trees

As the idea grew in America it was the schools which supplied the greatest impetus Educators saw an opportunity to motivate the study of nature and naturalists A community in Ohio planted an Author's Grove naming the trees after famous writers Today schools still find the practice attractive with many using Arbor Day for school forest planting

This is particularly true in Wisconsin and the State Department of Agriculture and the Wisconsin Nurserymen's Association have joined hands this year to rekindle a wider interest in Arbor Day Schools that do not have forests will be asked to plant one or more trees on school property Programs advancing the study of arboriculture have been suggested

Special Ceremony

A special tree planting ceremony is being planned on the grounds of the new state office building being erected on the west side of Madison

Citizens especially school children are being urged to plant a tree this year This can department officials point out be a family affair It will be an opportunity to promote a spirit of

State Was 6th During 1962 in Turkey Production

Turkey sales by Wisconsin producers last year totaled nearly 74 million pounds, according to the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Service The state ranked sixth in turkey marketings last year

Wisconsin turkey growers produced more than 5½ million turkeys last year compared with the record 1961 crop of nearly 6¼ million birds Practically all of the turkeys produced in Wisconsin are of the heavy breeds It is expected that the state's turkey crop this year will be a little larger than the 1962 crop but will not equal the record 1961 production

Last year Wisconsin producers had a gross income from turkeys of more than $11.5 million Turkey prices to growers averaged 21 cents per pound or 2 cents more than in 1961 but otherwise one of the lowest prices on record

For the nation the number of turkeys raised last year is estimated at a little more than 92 million birds This is 15 per cent below the record crop of 1961 Marketings of turkeys in the nation last year totaled more than 1½ billion pounds Prices to growers averaged about 21½ cents

It was the American poet Joyce Kilmer who wrote I think that I shall never see a poem lovely as a tree

Sponsors of the effort to rekindle interest in Arbor Day expressed the hope this week that many lovely poems will be planted in Wisconsin in 1963 — particularly on April 26 the day proclaimed by Gov. John Reynolds as Arbor and Bird Day in Wisconsin tion of acreage allotments with diversion payments for acreage taken-out of production or unlimited acreage with market prices of around $1 a bushel.

A two-thirds majority will be required to put the quotas into effect on the 1964 crop. Price support levels, payments and market prices depend on the outcome of the vote on quotas.

A proclamation of marketing quotas on the 1964 wheat crop and the date of referendum voting was received recently by the Calumet County Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization office here. The proclamation and referendum are required by law whenever wheat supplies are excessive. Guidelines defining excessive supplies are set by law. In the absence of marketing quotas, the supply of wheat for the marketing year beginning July 1, 1964, has been estimated at 2.8 billion bushels.

Under the back cover. That's our new air-cooled engine sitting in there. The VW "1500." Engine displacement is 1,500 cc. for 91.10 cu. in. The "1500" is 25% larger and it produces 25% more horsepower than any other Volkswagen engine ever. Yet gas consumption hasn't increased. 24 mpg is still our average. On regular gas.

The "1500" is for businessmen whose business takes them out on the highway. (Top speed tops that of any other VW Truck going.) Or over a stop-and-go delivery route. (Pick-up is quicker.) Or up steep hills. (The "1500" can lift a fully-loaded VW up 28% grades.)

The "1500"—and the bigger brakes that go with it—is an optional extra in the '63 Volkswagen Truck.

Standard equipment is the engine that's been following VWs around since 1960. The efficient, air-cooled "1200."

Other new features? They're up front in the cab. A new individual driver's seat that adjusts to give you plenty of legroom. A new oversize passenger seat. A new fresh air heater/defroster. All at no extra cost.

As for the load area, it's still the same old story. You get a whopping 170 cubic feet of usable cargo space to carry your payload.

That's why this story's worth repeating.

No Alarm Voiced at Moment

Cuban Exiles Have Built Vague Feeling of Uneasiness in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There is a vague feeling of uneasiness around here.

At the moment, Miami's progress to see nothing to be alarmed about in their city's unique situation. But its problems are growing.

The well-traveled visitor senses something akin to West Berlin here. In a way, Miami is a sister city to West Berlin, an outpost of the cold war which has opened its arms to tens of thousands of refugees from communism.

In few U.S. cities is there such an awareness of international friction. With a Communist island so near, the possibility of the accident which can lead to war is something Miami's think about frequently.

But unlike West Berlin, Miami is host to foreigners speaking a foreign tongue, clinging to foreign customs. Some of the customs, some of the habits, some of the characteristic ways of the Cubans can grate on the nerves of Americans.

Citizen Complaints

You hear complaints that the Cubans drive their automobiles the way they drove them in Havana—and that was wildly. You hear complaints that Cubans are emotional and noisy and like to talk at the tops of their voices at all hours of the night. You hear that Cubans give the impression that what happened to them was the United States' fault, and Americans owe them a living.

But these are small matters, which would mean little unless complicated by much graver problems.

Inside Miami today there is a city within a city, an American community separated by a cultural chasm from the refugees it shelters. The Cuban refugee population—despite resettlement of 57,000 in the past two years—probably numbers well above 150,000. It may be 200,000. No accurate figures are available.

Miami, already with a fragile economy, sees its problems multiplying daily.

This city was elected, because of its geography, to become an instrument of U.S. policy, without having been consulted in advance. Never in U.S. history has any American city been required to undertake such a massive assimilation of foreigners in such a short time.

Mayor Is Proud

Mayor Robert King High says he is proud of the way the city responded.

"Miami's have acted nobly and with maturity," the mayor told me, "and the thanks of the nation should be extended to them."

But the new crackdown by the U.S. government on hostile Cuban exile activity against the Castro regime has increased Miami's worries. The main source of worry is the current competition for jobs.

Miami has little in the way of industry. Much of its economy depends upon tourist trade and allied businesses. The lack of enough jobs to go around causes tensions, with Cubans often getting the blame from those who have no jobs.

About 65,000 Cubans receive federal relief because they have no other means of support. Once a Cuban gets a job, the relief checks stop coming. The refugee relief bill for 2½ years has been $80 million for the federal government. This money is spent in Miami. Many merchants benefit from it. But some merchants complain that Cubans tend to spend the money in Cuban neighborhoods and shops, going out of their way to do so.

Relief Money

Relief money is not precisely a Cuban contribution. But there are contributions to the economy. Cubans rent 20,000 homes which otherwise would be unused or perhaps used only in the tourist months. Licenses for 2,000 businesses have been issued to Cubans. Florida now has a sugar plantation and three sugar mills representing an investment of $150 million of Cuban and private U.S. money. A Cuban-type cigarette factory and other enterprises are in operation.

But the problem of jobs remains and grows steadily. The federal relief checks which go to unemployed Cubans also add to local resentment.

Miamians out of work get no federal checks. They must depend on county aid handed out on an emergency basis.

The city's unemployed want to know why the Cubans don't stick to relief and leave the jobs to others.

There is no minimum wage law in Florida, and jobs go for bidding. The Cuban, anxious not to be a charity case, often works for less money. He brings certain skills with him, including ability, often, to speak both Spanish and English, which makes him valuable for work in stores and certain other enterprises.

A large amount of unskilled workers, among them many Negroes, are out of jobs, unable to get work, and feeling resentful about it. Undoubtedly the unemployment problem will worsen as the slack summer season approaches.

Presses for Action

Mayor High has been pressing for congressional action to include Miami in the federal area redevelopment program. To be eligible, a locality must have 6 per cent unemployment. Miami more than meets the requirement—if the unemployed Cubans are included.

Up to now, the refugees have not been officially counted among Miami's unemployed, but a Department of Labor survey may recommend the change. This would make the city eligible for a program which includes public works and loans for business expansion.

Mayor High says it would be regrettable if Congress did not act quickly on Miami's plea and estimated that even at best, action could hardly be completed before August. The city therefore faces the slack summer season with its problems mounting.

"The need exists now," the mayor said.

$1.3 Million Bonding Approved by Council

Money to be Earmarked for Sewer Construction Program in Appleton

The last step needed to launch Appleton's most ambitious sewer construction program in history was taken this week when the common council gave final approval to a $1.3 million dollar bond issue.

Several major storm and sanitary sewer projects will be started during the coming months to alleviate chronic flooding conditions in various sectors of the city.

Within 30 days the city will take bids on the bonds. In approving the bond issue, the council concurred in the recommendations of its finance and street sanitation committees.

The city engineering department has been expediting the preparation of plans for the various sewer projects, which also include laying of new sewers on the fringe areas of the city where residential and business growth has been rapid.

Sewer Work

Sewer construction will continue through the summer, fall and winter months, according to Public Works Director Robert W. Bues. A list of projects and timetables were drawn up after the city and a consulting firm made surveys of the city's immediate sewer construction needs.

The College Avenue sewer reconstruction project is expected to be programmed in a year or two.

Other matters acted on by the council:

The city welfare director was authorized to employ a part-time practical nurse at the City Home, effective May 1, for a minimum of 24 hours a week.

Authorization was given Welfare director Merton Ehrliche to attend the joint conference of the Central States Region of the Wisconsin Public Welfare Assn. in Milwaukee, May 1, 2 and 3.

Attend Conference

Approved sending the mayor, clerk, treasurer and finance committee to the Wisconsin Clerks and Finance Officers Assn. conference at Manitowish Waters, June 19, 20, 21.

Authorized the permanent promotion of Carl Thiel and Robert Breckenridge as detectives on the Appleton Police Department.

Instructed the director of public works to employ several construction inspectors for the 1963 construction season at the rate of $1.70 to $2.25 per hour, plus car allowance of 10 cents per mile.

Adopted the recommendation of the American Automobile Assn. to install a flasher signal above the intersection of Division and Atlantic Streets. The city attorney was also asked to give an opinion as to whether the city had power to remove trees which obstruct vision at the intersection.

Police Check Theft of Kaukauna Driver's Car

KIMBERLY — Police are investigating the theft of a car from the Kimberly - Clark mill parking lot, which occurred some time between 6 p.m. and midnight Wednesday.

The keys to the vehicle, owned by John Tholan, 617 W. 10th St., Kaukauna, were not left in the car, but a faulty ignition switch enabled someone to drive it away, police said.

Musical Instrument Found Under Bridge Traced to Owners

Police questioned four youths who found a $600 alto saxophone under a bridge and attempted to sell the instrument to a music store.

The store owner became suspicious when he saw markings on the instrument which indicated it came from the Appleton High School orchestra.

The youths told police they found the instrument under the Lawe Street bridge when they went there looking for pigeons. High school officials said the instrument was taken from the school sometime between April 10 and Easter Sunday, but the theft was not reported to police.

Spring Planting May Bring Large Harvest

Producers' Statements Indicate Possible Record Production Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm leaders and politicians in Washington may argue about the federal farm-aid program but the nation's farmers are in the midst of a spring planting season that may bring a 1963 harvest topping all previous records.

If producers carry out previously reported planting intentions this year's crop acreage will be 2 per cent above last year when production equalled the 1960 record.

When the cropland area was 7 per cent larger.

With beef cattle numbers at record levels and hog production on the increase, marketings of livestock products also may set a new record.

However, the final crop output will depend heavily on weather conditions between now and harvest time. Except for parts of the Middle and Southern Great Plains, moisture conditions at the moment are fair to favorable.

While farmers go about their spring planting, farm leaders in Congress are debating the question of whether government should increase or decrease its role in farming. Before Congress are Kennedy administration recommendations for legislation to help curb future production of feed grains and milk and to help cotton regain lost markets.

Wheat Referendum

Farmers who produce wheat will vote May 21 in a nationwide referendum on the administration's new and tighter control plan for this grain. Approval by at least two-thirds of the growers voting is required to make the plan effective. The outcome will be watched closely not only by agricultural leaders but by congressmen, party leaders and President Kennedy. Results could well shape the future role of government in agriculture.

The American Farm Bureau Federation and other farm groups opposed to federal controls are out trying to influence wheat growers to vote against the new wheat proposal.

The National Farmers Union

the National Grange, the National Farm Organization and a number of wheat groups are working just as hard for a favorable vote.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, his top aides and field workers also are busily engaged in what they call a campaign to educate the farmers on the pros and cons of the wheat controversy.

The character of feed grain and dairy legislation finally considered by Congress this year will be influenced by the wheat vote.

Poorer Prices

Farmers go into the 1963 production season with farm prices slightly less favorable than a year ago and their costs a little higher. Farm prices reflected 7 per cent of the parity price goal of farm programs compared with 80 per cent a year ago. But they received a slightly higher net income in 1962 than in 1963.

Farm price supports are about the same as a year ago. As was the case last year, producers of wheat and feed grains are diverting a part of their grain land from production to help reduce surpluses. They may earn up to $900 million in diversion payments on this land.

Crop plantings this year are expected to be larger than last year for corn, spring wheat, winter wheat, flaxseed, sorghums, soybeans and sugar beets. Smaller acreages have been indicated for oats, barley, cotton, potatoes, tobacco, dry beans and peas, peanuts and hay.

Perhaps the darkest spot in agriculture is the lower prices at which some livestock, particularly fed beef cattle and hogs, are selling this year compared to last year. The government attributes the lower prices to increased marketings. Officials insist that they have no plan to renew efforts to let legislation authorizing livestock production controls.

Wisconsin a Major Peppermint Producer

Wisconsin is one of the five states in the Union that has peppermint as a crop. The 1962 value of the crop to the producers was $1,147,000.

Wisconsin ranks fourth in the nation in the production of maple syrup with a production of 10,000 gallons in 1962.

The state ranks second in total cranberry production and has the highest yield per acre of the five producing states. Total production was 380,000 barrels.

The state also ranks third in the sour cherry crop. More than 90 per cent of the sour varieties are grown in the five Great Lake states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, New York and Pennsylvania.

$1,000 Gift

F. M. McCullough made a gift of $1,000 in 1959 in the memory of A. L. Hatch, a pioneer fruit grower. The money was used to purchase trees for an experimental orchard.

Dr. F. A. Gilbert, professor of horticulture, is superintendent of the Peninsula Branch Experiment Station. About 35 persons are employed at the station during the growing season, including university staff, civil service, graduate students and seasonal help.

Five University of Wisconsin departments conduct research at the station. They are horticulture, entomology, plant pathology, genetics and dairy and food industries. The station also is the site of a world potato research program.

Dean Flocker said he considered the purchase price of $400 per acre to be reasonable considering the quality of the soil and its use for experimental purposes.

At the time we entered into the lease, he said, efforts were made to obtain a portion of this land for an outdoor theater, a use which we believe would have been undesirable adjacent to the experimental farm.

Forest Industry Fears Tax Law Proposal

heved of a heavy tax burden. They currently pay a tax of 25 per cent, leaving funds to encourage scientific forestry practices.

It is to be expected that the timber producers are looking out for their interests. Note what the U. S. Forest Service, a government agency, has said.

Importance Incentive

Capital gains provisions of the Internal Revenue Code have made timber growing more attractive and have provided an important incentive for more aggressive forestry programs.

The Forest Service reported a significant turning point in 1955. For the first time in decades, it noted the commercial forests of the United States were growing wood faster than it was being harvested.

Results the timber industry declares, have fully justified capital gains tax treatment.

They maintain it has stimulated a vast reforestation effort. Waste cutting practices have been checked. The forest products industry has been stabilized and is contributing substantially to the prosperity and economic stability of many communities.

"The forest industries are our fourth largest," the American Forest Association asserts. "They provide full time jobs for nearly 15 million persons whose take-home pay totals about $6 billion a year. The wholesale value of products manufactured from wood each year totals $23.5 billion."

Evidently President Kennedy feels the timber producers should do even more for their country. Quoting from his State of the Union address last January:

"Timber growth must be increased significantly if we are to meet the nation's projected requirements for wood products. The growing of timber is a long term project, requiring concerted public and private efforts and considerable advance planning."

Limit Treatment

But if Secretary Dillon has his way, spokesmen for the industry warn forest management on the scale now practiced in this country would disappear.

Dillon wants to limit capital gain treatment for timber owned by individual to $5,000 a year. Any profits above that figure would be taxed at the same rates as ordinary income.

Corporations wouldn't have even that $5,000 capital gains allowance. All of their income would be subject to ordinary corporate income tax rates.

Income tax rates also would apply where timber is sold outright for a lump sum. It is argued that this would be a harsh discrimination against timber investments, diverting available capital into other channels.

A resolution memorializing Congress to reject Secretary Dillon's proposal has been introduced in the Senate of the Wisconsin Legislature. Referred to the committee on conservation it probably will be reported out for final action soon.

Legislative Support

The resolution points out that the sawmill and wood-using industry in Wisconsin has an annual payroll of over $85 million while the paper industry pays its employees nearly $340 million. Wood and paper products manufactured in Wisconsin the resolution adds, are worth more than a billion dollars annually.

Legislatures of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Idaho, Maine, South Carolina and Tennessee already are officially on record in support of capital gains treatment for timber. So are the governors of Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oregon and Washington.

The principle of timber capital gains has been endorsed by the forestry schools of 16 colleges and universities.

The proposal would seriously affect 25,256 certified Tree Farmers in 47 states who are practicing good forest management on 60.6 million acres of forest land, declared Gilbert Ziemann, Green Bay, district representative of the American Forest Products Industries.

Ziemann said Wisconsin now has 613 certified Tree Farmers who account for 1,249,891 acres of forest land.

The state has more than 11.4 million acres of commercial forest land in private ownership according to W. A. McGraw, Green Bay, secretary and manager of the Northern Hardwood and Pine Manufacturers Association.

He pointed out that more than 3 million trees are being planted annually in these forests.

"This planting expresses the confidence that private corporations and individuals have had in the future of the timber industry under the present tax laws," McGraw declared.

"But their attitudes will change drastically if a change in the law diminishes their chances of ever making a profit."

USDA Foods Used to Help Victims of Floods

Stocks of price support and surplus removal foods are being used extensively in feeding thousands of flood victims in several states according to a Department of Agriculture report received at the Outagamie County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office.

Governors and state distributing agencies in all states likely to be affected by the current flood situation have been reminded of their long established authority to make immediate use of USDA donated foods wherever located. Generally donated foods in school lunchrooms, needy family distribution centers and in local and state warehouses in all affected states are ample for the emergency.

The foods include butter, canned chopped meat, peanut butter, cornmeal, flour, rice, nonfat dry milk, dry beans, rolled wheat and shortening. The stocks will be replaced by the department for continued regular distribution to schools, charitable institutions and needy families. Certain other foods purchased and distributed by USDA specifically for the National School Lunch program if used must be replaced by the disaster agencies.

A number of ASCS programs may be brought into operation for the benefit of farmers in areas where severe emergencies may occur.

If the area is designated as a "major disaster" area by the President and the state governor certifies the need for emergency feeding of livestock, ASCS can donate feed grain from CCC-owned stocks in cases where livestock may be flood stranded or commingled. Where the emergency is determined to warrant such assistance, CCC-owned feed grain may also be offered for sale to eligible farmers for their livestock at the support price or less (for foundation herds).

In addition, grazing of livestock also may be permitted on Conservation Reserve acreages for the duration of the emergency in designated areas. Permission to graze feed and feed grain lands

Miro Says Kennedy Has Granted Castro Absolute Immunity

Exiled Leader Raps President, Nikita's 'Sinister Designs'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, stepping down as leader of Cubans in exile, charges that President Kennedy has given Fidel Castro "absolute immunity" in the execution of Khrushchev's "sinister designs."

In a 6,500-word resignation letter that split the Cuban Revolutionary Council apart, Miro accused Kennedy of backing out on a promise of a second invasion and of "liquidating" the struggle for Cuba.

And he warned that the Soviet premier, "day by day, will increase his army of local Communists" in the Western Hemisphere until a "terrifying catastrophe" develops.

In support of Miro and his stand, nine members of the 16-man council quit during a 4½-hour session that followed Miro's departure.

No successor was chosen to head the council, which was formed with U.S. government support to launch the futile invasion at the Bay of Pigs. But Dr. Manuel Antonio de Varona, Miro's right-hand man, said he would seek to strengthen the council by wooing more of the many exile groups into its ranks. And he said every effort would be made to gain U.S. help for the Cuban exile cause.

Miro, first prime minister of the Castro regime who later defected, said Kennedy told him at a meeting in the White House April 10, 1962, nearly a year after the first invasion, that the problem of Cuba was essentially a military one and that the council should contribute the major contingent of soldiers.

Alleges Liberation Pledge

"I left the White House with the assurance that the liberation of Cuba would follow soon with Cubans at the vanguard in battle," he said. He indicated that this was to be in connection with the Cuban blockade that President Kennedy proclaimed Oct. 22, 1962.

Later, he said, U.S. policy on Cuba "shifted suddenly, violently and unexpectedly" and "the struggle for Cuba was in the process of being liquidated by the government."

The United States was the victim of a "master move" by the Soviets, Miro declared.

During the negotiations that followed the blockade, he asserted, Khrushchev maintained his attack and subversion base in the Caribbean strengthened Castro's military capacity to the point where he could smash an uprising of the Cuban people, and "immobilized" the United States and the rest of the Western Hemisphere.

"These, in all their crude reality, are the facts," Miro said. "The repeated assurances, the turn to Page 5, Col. 2.

Lighted Objects in Sky Attributed to Super-Speed Planes

FOND DU LAC (AP) — There have been strange maneuverings in the sky over Fond du Lac in the last week, but there may be a sound explanation after all.

Star-gazing reached a peak Wednesday night when patrons at a drive-in theater told of seeing about 20 lighted objects, sometimes in formation, race from horizon to horizon, usually in an east-west direction.

But sometimes they made sharp turns, sometimes the lights were white, sometimes crimson.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency in Milwaukee suggested the objects were super-speed planes refueling at altitudes so high the sound of the engines was lost.

The spokesman said the agency had received a series of similar reports a week earlier, and established through a radar check that they were planes.

Kennedy Says Budget Cut Would Erase Million Jobs

All Benefits From Proposed Slash in Taxes Would be Offset, He Tells Editors

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said today a $5 billion cut in his budget would cost a million jobs and offset all the benefits from a proposed tax cut.

In an address before the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the President said he wasn't saying that federal spending is desirable just for the sake of spending, or that economy efforts should stop.

In words aimed obviously at Republican critics who have been calling for reductions of up to $15 billion in his $100 billion budget, Kennedy said:

"But I am saying that carefully screened and selected federal expenditure programs can play a useful role, both singly and in combination; that to cut $5-$10 billion from the proposed budget would harm both the nation and the typical neighborhood in it; and that the right way to a balanced budget is to seek first a balanced economy. The tax cuts I have proposed, and the level of expenditures I have proposed, have been carefully fitted together with that chief objective in mind."

For the most part, the speech dealt with economics at home. Kennedy drew a picture of a typical American community he called "Random Village," and told at length how it is affected by activities of the federal government.

Brighter Peace Outlook

But the President also referred at the outset to the Cuban invasion fiasco of two years ago and the handling of the Cuban crisis of last October, and he said that "there is today more widespread assurance that both peace and freedom can prevail."

He added that, while vigilance cannot be relaxed, there is a tendency among many newspaper readers and writers to devote more attention to the domestic

OAS Asked to Resist Reds

Committee Points To Intervention by Communist Powers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special committee of the Organization of American States has recommended that all of the American republics organize to "give battle" to communism.

The report by an eight-nation committee has not been made public but its contents became known today to The Associated Press.

The OAS document was drafted by a committee of representatives from Argentina, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Panama, Peru, El Salvador and the United States.

More Red Activity

The document says "the intervention of the Sino-Soviet powers in this hemisphere, via Cuba, has increased notably in the last year." It said the increases came in the form of a buildup of Soviet military power in Cuba and greater use of that island as a base from which to foment subversion in other countries.

Group Proposals

The committee recommended that member nations:

1. Enforce all existing recommendations of inter-American conferences and meetings of foreign ministers held since 1948 in relation to subversion and handling of agents of sabotage and propaganda.
2. Build up security and intelligence services to put them in a position "to give battle" to subversive activities of international communism.
3. Avail themselves of technical services of the OAS on security matters.
4. Exchange information among the different nationalities on activities of followers of Cuba Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Communists.

Syria Arrests Gunmen In Assassination Plot

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Interior Minister Amin El Hafez said today police have arrested the gunmen who tried to assassinate Archbishop Shawarsh Kouyoumlian.

Defends Activities

But the fact that O'Donnell and a Filipino associate, Francisco A. Delgado, were "unduly enriched," Fulbright said, "is of less importance than the fact that the legislative process has been subverted."

In a statement after disclosure of O'Donnell's contributions, the lobbyist said his activities "have been no different than those of several hundred other practicing attorneys, including former members of both houses of Congress."

The Justice Department said it will examine the hearing record made public Thursday in a public Foreign Relations Committee hearing.

The testimony showed O'Donnell's contributions came from an $18,000 fund furnished by Philippine sugar interests.

Lobbyist Under Fire for Gifts To Lawmakers

Zablocki on List Of Those Getting Campaign Funds

BY ERNEST R. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield gave top priority today to proposed re-vamping of the Philippines war claims bill after disclosure of a lobbyist's campaign gifts to Congress members sympathetic to the bill.

But Mansfield made it clear he is "certain in my own mind that no member of the Senate was influenced by these contributions in any way and they did not affect their votes on legislation."

The Montana senator was referring to 1960 contributions by Washington lawyer-lobbyist John A. O'Donnell — including gifts of $2,000 to Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., and $500 each to Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader.

Big Fees Involved

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee released testimony Thursday that pictured O'Donnell as interested in passage of the $75-million war claims bill because the stood to gain from $150,000 to nearly a half-million dollars in fees.

Zablocki and Miller were chief sponsors of the bill in the House. Humphrey introduced it in the Senate. It passed both bodies last summer by a voice vote — with no record roll call.

The bill provides for payment of individual damage claims growing out of Japanese occupation of the Philippines in World War II. None of the money has been dispensed yet.

Backs Amendment

Mansfield said he supports fully a proposed amendment by J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Foreign Relations Committee chairman, to provide for a lump sum payment to the Philippines government. This, said Fulbright, would cut off O'Donnell's fees.

"I'm all for it," Mansfield told a reporter. "If the Foreign Relations Committee approves it at its meeting Tuesday, it will be given top priority consideration in the Senate."

O'Donnell already has collected $265,000 in fees under a 1956 act authorizing war damage payments to religious groups in the Philippines, Fulbright said.

Many Faults in Thresher Prior To Sea Trials

Court Told Sub Was In Good Condition Before Last Voyage

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) —

A Navy court of inquiry has received a list of more than a dozen malfunctions that plagued the nuclear submarine Thresher before she went on sea trials April 10 and was lost with 129 men aboard.

Lt. Raymond A. McCoole, 33, of Dover, N.H., told the court Thursday the heavy load of corrective work robed the crew of sufficient training in disaster procedures.

McCoole emphasized, however, that all the work was completed properly and the Thresher was in excellent condition when she put out to sea on her final voyage.

Search to Be Resumed

While the court resumed its investigation of the tragedy at Portsmouth naval shipyard where the Thresher was built, an oceanographic vessel, Atlantis I, took on scientific equipment at Woods Hole, Mass., and prepared to return Saturday to its search for the remains of the submarine.

The Boston Globe published a report Thursday that the Thresher had been found but it was quickly denied by officials at Woods Hole and the Navy in Washington.

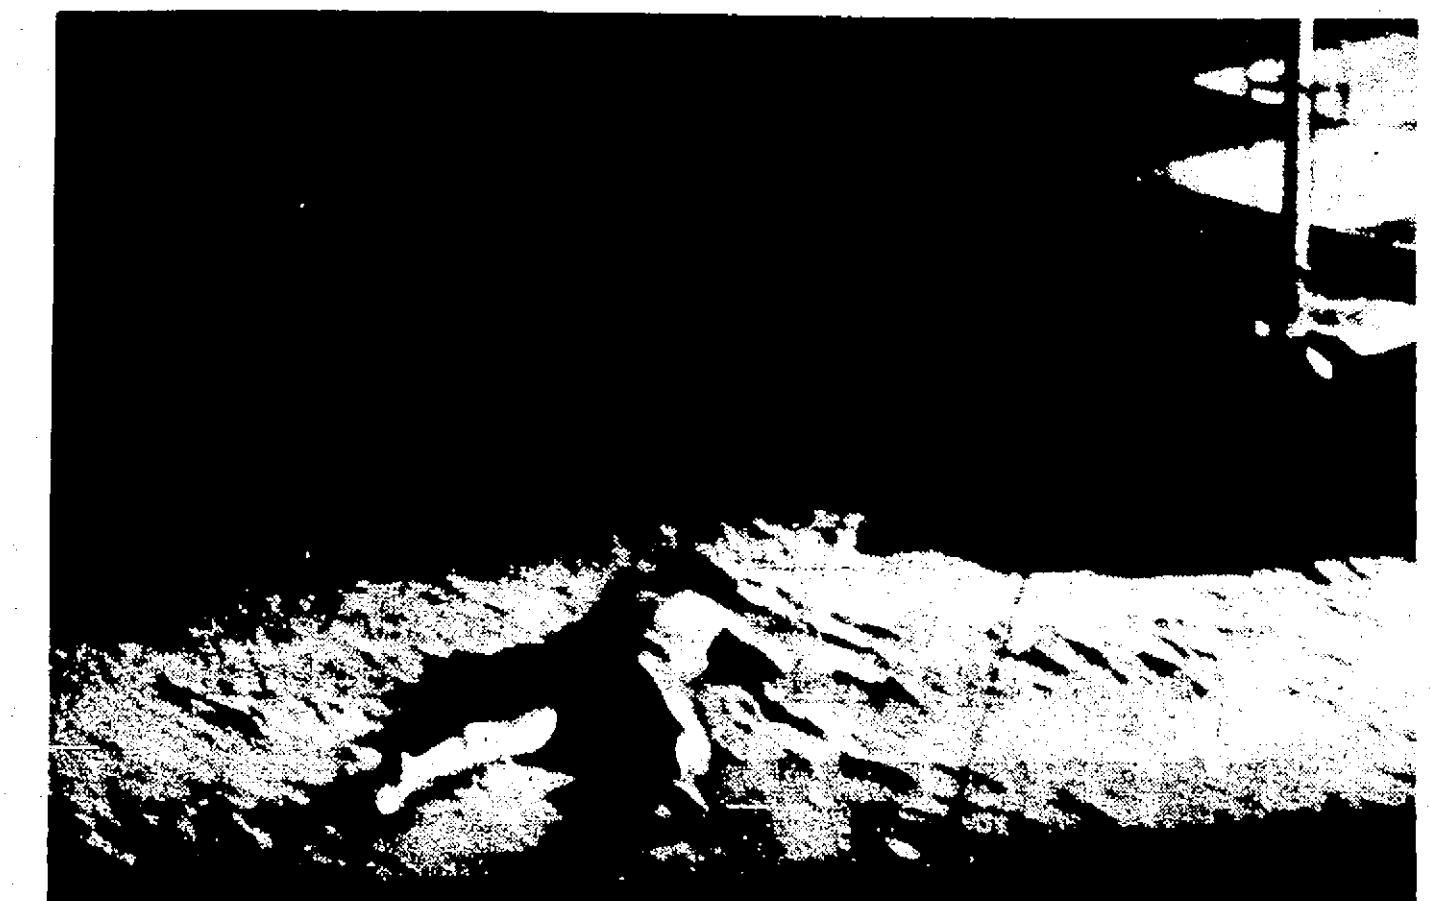

The court resumed hearings today, its opening proceeding behind closed doors, to hear testimony on classified information.

Gronouski Says No General Sales Tax

Outagamie Democrats Told That Party Supports Reynolds' Plan

"I am not disgusted with the 'pay-as-you-go' (withholding day's defeat of Gov. Reynolds' tax plan for corporations," State Tax Commissioner John Gronouski said Thursday night. "But rather, I am enthusiastic."

Gronouski spoke at a program sponsored by the Outagamie County Chapter of the Democratic Party at Standard Manufacturing Co. He said he was enthusiastic because the bill was defeated by a slim 49-46 margin, and because no Democratic assemblyman voted against the proposal.

The commissioner said he thinks the tax bill which finally will be passed will be within the framework of the governor's original proposal, although he feels there is a possibility the selective sales tax may not be repealed.

Gronouski said a general sales tax would not be passed because "the ground swell for a sales tax, to put it bluntly, just isn't there."

Lack of Cohesion While the Democrats are becoming more unified in support of the governor's tax plan, the commissioner said, there is a great lack of cohesion in the Republican caucus.

He said Thursday morning the GOP caucus voted 10-9 against its own tax bill.

Gronouski attacked GOP strategy, saying that just last week the Republicans were attacking of state, and state treasurer.

2 Cardinals Confer in Red Hungary

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Franziskus Cardinal Koenig of Austria will return to Communist Hungary "in the foreseeable future," a Roman Catholic news agency said today. He returned here last night from Budapest where he met with Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

The report by Kathpress, news agency of the Vienna Archdiocese, gave rise to speculation that the Austrian cardinal would visit Cardinal Mindszenty once more at the U.S. legation in Budapest, where he has taken refuge from Hungary's Communist regime.

Cardinal Koenig held talks with the Hungarian prelate for four hours yesterday, presumably relating to him Pope John XXIII's wishes that he go to Rome.

Move to Extend Terms of State Chiefs Gets Boost

MADISON (AP)—A move to extend the terms of Wisconsin's constitutional officers to four years received a boost Thursday in both the Senate and the Assembly.

In a reversal of action taken just 24 hours earlier, the Senate adopted a Democratic sponsored resolution to change the constitution to make the four-year term apply to governor and lieutenant governor. The vote was 17-16, the same tally by which the proposed amendment had been rejected the day before.

The Senate then moved on to give preliminary approval to resolutions that also would extend to four years the terms of Wisconsin's attorney general, secretary of state, and state treasurer.

Plunges 50 Feet

Woman Aerialist Third of Troupe To Die in Fall Within 16 Months

BY RANDALL W. BLAKE

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Yetta Grotofent, 42, of the famed circus aerialist family, the Wallendas, died in a 50-foot fall from her slender gray pole at a Shrine Circus performance Thursday night.

She had reached the climax of her solo act and was swaying back and forth in a wide arc when, as the pole was on a back swing, Yetta suddenly tumbled backward and plummeted to her death as 4,666 spectators watched in awed silence.

She was the third member of the troupe to die in a fall in the last 16 months.

Dieter Scheppe, 23, and Richard Faughnan, 29, were killed in Detroit on Jan. 30, 1962, in a high wire accident involving seven members of the troupe.

Yetta was not a member of that act.

What caused the death of the 42-year-old Yetta?

A member of the Kristensen troupe of equestrians said in a stated interview that "I think she must have passed out up there because she didn't scream or circus aerialist family, the Wallendas, died in a 50-foot fall from her slender gray pole at a Shrine Circus performance Thursday night."

Several other circus people said they had heard Yetta wasn't feeling well before she began her solo act.

Some spectators said the aerialist appeared to slip.

Preferred Higher Pole In an interview in Detroit in 1953, Yetta had said that when she was on the indoor pole "it seems so little I feel I have to do more to impress the audience, I get a little reckless."

That comment had followed her explanation of her preference for the 12½-foot pole she used outdoors and on which, she said: "You can really sway, what with the height and the wind."

Fellow performers said Yetta had been nervous since the circus opened here Monday. They said her apparatus had been damaged last week in Florida and temporary repairs had been made.

"I don't think there was anything wrong with the pole," said Barbara Woodcock, member of an animal act. "But Yetta was just plain worried."

Countess Maritella, a high wire performer, added: "She even looked a little ill tonight. I asked her if she felt okay. She replied, 'I'm all right.'"

Other show members who watched said it appeared Yetta bent to place her foot in a strap, then "seemed to faint."

Mrs. Frank Scott, a spectator, said Yetta seemed to lose her footing.

Hits Guide Rope "She fell so gracefully, it was almost as though it were part of her act," Mrs. Scott related.

Yetta fell face upward until she hit a guide rope 15 feet above the sawdust floor.

The impact spun her around and she hit the floor spread-eagled and face downward. She never uttered a sound as she fell.

For several moments the arena was virtually soundless.

Over 3,000 Sign Protest Petitions

College Students To Continue Project For 5 More Weeks

More than 3,000 persons signed petitions circulated before two Appleton stores Friday and Saturday in sympathy with a Negro boycott of 127 stores in Jackson, Miss., protesting discriminatory practices.

The reaction has been favorable and the response very good, said William Barton, a Lawrence sophomore and one of the leaders of the project.

Some persons have refused to sign the petitions and others have taken the flyer explaining them home to read over before signing it, he said.

Plans call for the petitions to be circulated for five more weeks on Fridays and Saturdays before the J. C. Punney and Woolworth stores, which belong to national chains whose stores are being boycotted by the Jackson Negroes. Lawrence College students and faculty members and some townspeople make up the informal group circulating the petitions.

Don't Stop People
Those circulating the petition have tried to make it plain they are not trying to stop people from entering the stores, Barton said. Some persons have heckled the petitioners, but they have been in the minority, he said. Some of the persons working on the project have received abusive phone calls, he said.

The group received four letters of commendation from Appleton ministers today, he said. Plans are being made to circulate a petition on the Lawrence campus supporting the Jackson boycott, in addition to those being circulated downtown.

V. I. Minahan, publisher of the Post-Crescent and a member of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights, will speak on the commission's work at 8 p.m. today at the Lawrence Union. The talk was arranged by the group circulating the petitions.

The group also is working on plans to hold a drive for clothing, food and contributions for Greenwood Miss., where difficulties have arisen over attempts by Negroes to register to vote. This will be done in conjunction with church groups and the Appleton Youth Council.

No Plans Now for Second 41 Bridge Near Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — A second U. S. 41 bridge over Lake Butte des Morts at Oshkosh is not being planned at the present time, W. Empey, Green Bay district highway engineer, told the Winnebago County Board Wednesday morning in response to a question from Supervisor Warren Mordale, Town of Vinland.

Under the present financing, the state has about $1 million every two years to provide for a bridge and there are numerous requests, he indicated.

The bottleneck over the finance is a bigger bottleneck than that caused in the traffic by the Ninth Street at Oshkosh. When two have bridge over the lake, he said.

He also said there was no plan to relocate State 21 around Onro.

Annual Paper Sales Nearing $1 Billion Mark

Industry Spokesman Warns Profit Picture Not Bright

NEENAH — Annual sales of Wisconsin paper and pulp are approaching the billion dollar mark. But an industry spokesman warned today that the profit picture is not bright.

George E. Mackin of Green Bay Packaging Inc., general chairman of the Wisconsin Paper Industry Information Service, reported on the results of a recent survey of paper manufacturers with operations in the state. He said their total yearly sales figure is $935,000,000.

Mackin made the report as the industry prepared to observe its first Wisconsin Paper Week May 12-13.

It is obvious that our present rate of growth continues the paper industry in Wisconsin should have sales over a billion dollars yearly before too long, Mackin said. Our total capital investment in Wisconsin amounts to $6,618,000 — or more than $1,000 for each employee.

In the 197 pulp, paperboard and paper products establishments in Wisconsin there are more than 42,000 employees. They turn out pulp, paper and paperboard amounting to 3,771,000 tons each year.

Mackin pointed out that the tonnage figure does not include tissues, cartons, bags and other papers which have been converted to specialized consumer items.

We know from our survey of Wisconsin firms that the paper industry pays a total of $21,000 in state taxes.

This does not include other public taxes paid to the federal government. As everyone knows the tax on profits of any corporation is enough to record any of these state amounts to 12 per cent, he said.

Fox River Valley, State, Nation Hit by Hard Wind, Thunderstorms

Serious Damage Reported South Of Green Bay

High winds, accompanied by a noise sounding like a freight train and thundershowers, hit the Fox River Valley and left a trail of damage Thursday night.

A barn roof was torn away and a small airplane was turned over and wrecked at the Nicolet Airport about five miles south of Green Bay. Some utility wires in the area also were torn away.

A plate glass window facing College Avenue on Ford Hopkins Drug Store, Appleton, was blown in about 11:15 p.m.

The Appleton street department reported a maple tree, about two feet in diameter, was blown down at the intersection of Oneida and Atlantic streets about 11:30 p.m. Power in the northwestern section of Menasha was cut off shortly after 11 p.m., according to the water and light commission. The commission said service, apparently disrupted by a bolt of lightning, was cut off for about 50 minutes.

The U.S. Weather Bureau, Austin Straubel Field, Green Bay, reported a 60-mile-an-hour gust lasting only a few seconds late Thursday night.

Kaukauna police said an electric line came down at the corner of Division and Kaukauna streets at 11:15 p.m. and was repaired immediately.

Appleton's cooperative observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., reported that winds reached a maximum velocity of 46 miles an hour at 10:45 p.m.

In Neenah, WNAM Radio's weatherologist C. V. Ardis Jr. said the average total rainfall for April is 2.60 inches in Appleton. But Ardis added that "one good rainfall" could bring the area to normal.

The Milwaukee weather bureau this morning said there should be showers and thundershowers early next week, bringing about an inch of rain.

Temperatures for the next five days will average near normal, according to the Milwaukee bureau, with highs ranging between 51 and 62 and lows between 31 and 40.

The Green Bay bureau said the mercury would hit 65 today, drop to 33 overnight and climb to 52 Saturday, with no precipitation.

WNAM recorded a high Thursday of 51 at 1 p.m., a low of 41 at 5 a.m. today and a reading of 52 at 9 a.m. today.

The power company recorded a high Thursday of 49, an overnight low of 37 and a reading of 64 at 9 a.m. today.

Strong winds lashed the central Plains and southern Rockies and stirred up dust storms in many areas as extremely dry air swept in from the West. Northward, cold air from Canada spread into the northern Rockies and sections of the Dakotas. Snow fell in the area, with more than one inch in some sections.

Light rain fell in central California and in the extreme Pacific Northwest but dry weather prevailed in most other sections of the nation.

Lightning Hits Rural Home in Eau Claire County

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms moved through Wisconsin during the night, causing damage in some areas.

The storms dumped as much as three-quarters of an inch of rain. Hail also was reported in some sectors.

Trees, poles and utility wires were felled in Ozaukee and Washington counties. Power was disrupted for a period in Hartford.

Lightning struck a house owned by George Shaw in the Town of Union in Eau Claire County. The flash travelled through the home's electrical system, knocking plaster from walls and even ruining an electric blanket. Authorities estimated damage at $1,000.

Members of the Shaw family were in the kitchen and escaped injury.

Iowa Tornadoes

There was some property damage and trees and utility lines were toppled. Hail and heavy rain hit the region.

Strong winds lashed the central Plains and southern Rockies and stirred up dust storms in many areas as extremely dry air swept in from the West. Northward, cold air from Canada spread into the northern Rockies and sections of the Dakotas. Snow fell in the area, with more than one inch in some sections.

Light rain fell in central California and in the extreme Pacific Northwest but dry weather prevailed in most other sections of the nation.

Will Flag Day Parade be Continued?

For the first time since shortly after the end of World War II, Appleton's nationally recognized Flag Day Parade may not be viewed along Wisconsin and College avenues on June 14 this year.

Appleton Elks Lodge officers have withdrawn their support and sponsorship of the parade because of increasing costs which, over the years, have been shared out equally by the Elks and the City Council.

The Appleton parade, which was viewed annually by thousands of persons, young and old from near and far, was one of the largest in the Midwest. At its peak, over 330 units, bands, drum and bugle corps, industrial, civic and patriotic floats and military and civilian marching units lined the line of march. Other years, the parade averaged over 100 units.

They Understand

The Lawrence College students and faculty members who stood in front of several Appleton stores last week gathering signatures supporting boycott of over 100 stores in Jackson, Miss., because of their discrimination against Negroes, used good sense in adopting this method of expressing their feelings rather than actually attempting to discourage patronage of the stores here as is being done in some other northern cities. There is an element of unfairness in penalizing employees of chain stores in the North for actions of people in the South who happen to work for the same "chains"; to treat some people unfairly while protesting the unfair treatment of someone else tends to cancel out a protest itself.

By adopting the technique they did, the Lawrence students have gathered over 10,000 signatures of people in this area to be forwarded to the national headquarters of the chains, presumably with copies to the store managers in Jackson. While it is true that "some people will sign any-

Socialized Medicine in Italy

A good idea of the kind of mess socialized medicine can produce is reported in recent news dispatches from Italy.

Doctors, nurses and technicians are clamoring for more pay. The physicians have staged protest parades; nurses and technicians walked off their jobs at state hospitals. Then the nation's 83,000 doctors staged a nationwide 24-hour strike, turning patients away from their doors and refusing to provide hospitals and clinics anything but emergency service.

The next day the physicians began a partial boycott of the detailed paperwork required by Italy's various medical insurance programs. And finally the National Federation of Medical Associations ordered a complete break with the nation's state-operated medical insurance agencies. Until they get satisfaction, they declared, they will go on their own, charging patients directly and letting the patients try and collect from the insurance agencies.

Many other issues are involved. The doctors want better job security, shorter hours, improved working conditions and better equipment.

Government officials say on their part

Most of the credit for this outstanding event must go to a small group of Appleton Elks who year after year contacted the units and carried the burden of the work without much help from other organizations.

The Appleton Elks won first places many years in its Grand Lodge Flag Day promotion competition over larger lodges across the nation.

It seems too bad that this patriotic gesture, honoring the flag of the United States, should be dropped after so many years of success.

Perhaps Mayor Mitchell could take the leadership here and call together the leaders of civic and patriotic organizations, including the Elks, and convince them to carry on this patriotic project.

thing," this number of signatures from a community the size of Appleton cannot help but impress the executives of these chains. And the fact that the signatures were gathered in front of their own stores will show them that most of them come from their own customers here.

The remark is often made that people in the North "just don't understand" the so-called Negro problem in the South because they have not been there and have not had first-hand experience with it. In this connection it is relevant to point out that the leaders of the Lawrence group recently returned from visiting Jackson, and it was precisely because they did have first-hand experience with conditions there that they decided to do something about it. They saw with their own eyes the spectacle of fellow Americans being treated as inferior citizens simply because of the color of their skins and other physical attributes. By their action they have shown that they understand well what real Americanism is, and have demonstrated a willingness to stick their necks out for it.

Government officials say on their part that doctors are always free to go it on their own. But 85 per cent of Italy's population is covered by one or more government insurance plans, and that leaves independent doctors a relatively small field in which to operate.

Italy's plan is not actually socialized medicine. But the same result is accomplished through compulsory medical insurance in which the government regulates fees and costs.

The lesson is that if a nation makes doctors dependent upon government for their livelihood, then doctors are going to organize to put pressure on the government to better their lot.

It is easy to tell ourselves that this cannot happen here. There probably is no other profession in which individual members exhibit more independence in the United States than in the medical field.

But the means for an Italian-style system already are at hand through Social Security. And the more Social Security is expanded to cover medical costs, the more dependent upon government our physicians will become. And such dependence rather quickly breaks down independence.

Hassam Shows How to Spend Our Money

While the foreign aid debate was raging in Congress, a United States visitor gave one indication why there is so much confusion surrounding the grants and loans to underdeveloped nations.

Moroccan King Hassam II came to visit President Kennedy and was royally entertained. Then the king went to New York on a shopping spree which a press agent explained "was a conscientious effort to return much of the American aid money—in U.S. dollars and through the free enterprise system."

Hassam spent $18,000 at Saks Fifth Avenue for clothes. Then he went looking for and found a variety of cameras, stereo and color TV sets. From one auto agency he ordered five Cadillacs. He bought 5,000 sheets, towels and blankets. After spending quite a bit more in some of Manhattan's most expensive bistros, Hassam and his party took a U.S. Air Force Boeing 707 for home while a Royal Moroccan Constellation (from the U.S.) and a chartered Pan Am Clipper followed loaded down with his purchases. The bill was about $780,000.

Presumably the United States should be glad that our gold reserves took such a boost on the statistical charts from Hassam's visit. We realize that austerity is not the expected way of life for royalty from many of the nations which complained most bitterly about colonial oppression and the evils of capitalism. One of the major aims of our economic aid has been to try to raise living standards and narrow the vast difference between the haves and the have nots.

But there still is something drastically wrong when United States citizens are taxed to provide the King of Morocco with a spending spree. Underneath all the fold-out that is what happened.

Looking Backward

Gen. McClellan Back in the News

70 YEARS AGO
Annotated from the Appleton Crescent for April 18, 1893.

(Reprinted from the Chicago Times, this story was written by a special Times correspondent in Washington, D.C.)

Washington, April 8.—About the end of December, 1861, the enemies of Gen. McClellan in Congress caused a "Committee on the Conduct of War" to be appointed. The object of the appointment of this committee was to ruin and break down that distinguished officer.

The reason of this was that it had been ascertained that Gen. McClellan would not prosecute the war in the manner the radicals wished, and for the obvious reason they had in view. He understood the object of the war to be the reconstruction of the Union. They wanted the war to be conducted for the abolition of slavery, and in such a manner that any reconstruction of Union would be impossible.

When the radicals became convinced that they could not make Gen. McClellan their tool, to work their purpose, they determined to make way with him, to cause his dismissal. Hence their howls of "On to Richmond!" during the fall of 1861 and the whole of the following winter; hence the appointment of the "Committee on the Conduct of the War," composed of his most malignant enemies.

Their machinations were so successful as to cause his removal from the chief command of the army early in March, 1862, to cause all of his troops to be removed from his command in the following August and to cause his dismissal from the command of the Army of the Potomac on the 5th of November last.

The committee has just now published its report. It is a tissue of misrepresentation, false reasoning and distorted inferences from beginning to end.

Discussion of Our Religious Differences Brings Understanding

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A letter to the editor on April 16 pointed out that in the writer's opinion the discussion on aid to private schools has been fruitless. On the contrary, I believe it is serving a very useful purpose. The discussion at times has been heated, at times a bit bigoted and at times some sound ideas have been presented by both sides. Most important, however, we have exercised our most precious American heritage, our right of freedom of expression. We have also seen the need of discussing our religious differences and this is an achievement. Only by discussing these ideas openly, can we begin to understand each other. I believe that one unfortunate part of this whole dialogue has resulted however and that is that we have lost sight of the real issue—the free choice of education of our children. This is the issue and it concerns the basic question of who (parents or state) have the primary right of education of our children. It also concerns the question of what orientation the education should take.

To those who are on the opposite side of this dialog, I would like to ask some significant questions. Do you believe that parents have the primary right of education of their children? Do you believe that freedom of education exists when that freedom carries a financial penalty for parents who believe in a God-centered education? If you believe that we should have one state supported school system, what type of orientation do you believe that it should carry—Lutheran, Catholic, Moslem, Jewish, atheist or secularist or what?

Dr. Bernard Bell, noted Episcopalian clergyman in his book "Crisis in Education" said that "as the American school system is now conducted, more and more conducted, there is no such thing as religious liberty in American education. There is liberty only to be unreligious."

One of the writers to the People's Forum said recently — "I have found many occasions to refer to God in my history and government classes. I have found no complaints from parents, administrators, etc. . . . He, I am sure, realizes that if he took a positive view of God and some one student and his parents objected forcefully enough through our courts, he would be forced to stop. This has been proved time and time again in court actions all over the United States. Christmas plays have been stopped. Bible reading and baccalaureate services are now undergoing review in our courts. The statement by Madalyn Murray who is one of the principals in the Bible court case has told her story in a view of opinions in the April 12 issue of Life. All these cases prove a trend and Dr. Bell so fully spelled it out when he said there is liberty only to be unreligious."

The whole orientation of our school system presents a problem. Would we teach in our school system that the whole universe came into being by chance, that all life was formed by chance, or would we teach that the formation of the universe and all life was evolved through the guiding influence and direction of an all-knowing, all loving, infinite God.

How do we answer the very profound questions "What is man?" "What is man's purpose?" "Is there a God?" in our state school system and do it to the satisfaction of all elements of our pluralistic society. How can a state school system accept or reject secularism without taking some stand on some type of faith? Dr. Nathan Pusey (formerly of Lawrence College) in a baccalaureate address at Harvard said of secularism that "itself becomes a faith and raised a hope that man can through his own efforts—without God—solve all the remaining problems that stand between him and a secular paradise on earth. . . ."

How can a state school system be silent on the subject of religion and of God and not inevitably point out to the student the unimportance of religion? Dr. Luther Weigle, former dean of the Yale Divinity School pointed this out in his statement "The ignorance of religion by the schools, inevitably conveys to the children a negative suggestion. — It is natural for them to conclude that religion is negligible, or unimportant or irrelevant to the main business of life." The issue is clear, if only one school system exists, how will it be orientated?

No matter where you look in the world, a state that operates a single school system has orientated it along some ideology. In Spain, it is a Catholic orientation. In Egypt, it has a Moslem orientation. In Russia, it has an atheistic orientation. Can a single orientated school system serve the needs of all of our people in our society? I for one believe that it cannot. I also believe that one school system whether it is orientated as Jewish, Catholic, Moslem or Secularist should not have a tax advantage. I believe that only when we have freedom of education with an equitable distribution of the tax dollar can we have true freedom of education. I believe that an enforced orientation to any philosophical orientation is a violation of our freedoms guaranteed by our constitution.

Undeliverable - Unbelievable

From The Chicago Sun Times

Somewhere deep in the bowels of the U. S. Treasury Department there sits a man at a desk. To his desk come income tax refund checks that have been returned to the Treasury Department as "undeliverable."

This man carefully sends a notice to the address the Post Office has said is undeliverable and notifies the people at this undeliverable address that their income tax refund has been sent to this undeliverable address and returned.

Incredible?
Not at all. Just another example of progressive government thinking. Only a bureaucrat would think of notifying an addressee at an undeliverable address that his mail was undeliverable.

Scheduled to take part in the Easter sunrise service sponsored by the City-Wide Young People's Council were Bernard Kasslike, Frank Abendroth, Edward Mumm Jr., James Hensel, Beatrice Lenke, Ruth Mewaldt, Peggy and Ivis Boyer, Miss Marion Uebele was to be organist.

Wisconsin Report

Will Governor Allow Services to Decline Or Accept Sales Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Something new has been added to the arguments of Gov. Reynolds against the sales tax which the legislature evidently wants to enact, and which is picking up support in politically independent circles.

He has no assurance, the governor observed at his most recent news conference, that if a sales tax is enacted the legislature will spend the receipts for the kind of governmental services he wants and he is sure the people of Wisconsin want.

The Republicans are really reactionaries at heart, the governor went on. They don't want to support necessary services. They "might give the money away", as he put it, even as they did two years ago when they decided to give some relief to local real and property taxpayers.

Aside from the fact that the governor's recollection of the history of the 1961 tax fight is slightly less than accurate, this is an interesting footnote to the gradually tightening finance crisis at the capitol between the adamant governor and the obdurate legislature.

NEW LINE?

Always before the governor has recited his favorite speech about the regressivity of the sales tax, about its impact upon persons of lower and middle incomes.

His absolute pledges to veto any such measure, it is fair to surmise, also have been based upon his, practical realization that his anti-sales tax record, merit aside, has been responsible for his career to date. There is no other way to explain his hair's victory of last fall in defiance of a trend that was otherwise favoring the Republicans.

The governor's new line does not imply that he is going to change his mind. His promise to veto is as positive as ever. What is suggested here by the elaboration of his argument is that he is feeling the pressure from some of the spending lobbies, and perhaps other liberal Democrats who are worried about what a budget-tax crisis may mean.

This involves a central question that has been put to the governor again and again, without a straight answer to date. If he must choose between his devotion to education and welfare and the other causes that he speaks about so fervently in his speeches and press releases, and his convictions on taxing methods, which will he choose? Will he choose to uphold his resolve to defeat the sales tax? Will he maintain his position at all costs, including the degeneration of essential services that concerns him so deeply?

THE DOUBT

He is quite clearly pondering the question. The assertion that he has no assurance that sales tax proceeds would be used constructively betrays it.

Considered on its face, of course, that doubt is unfounded. Even the three per cent sales levy that the governor worries about would produce less money than the Republicans, with their more conservative views on what is an adequate state budget, are likely to vote in the end.

The rise in state spending for many years past, including the years when the Republicans were in absolute control, was about 20 per cent per biennial interval. Applied to the present budget, that would mean a rise in appropriations of about $150,000,000, and an additional income requirement of the same amount.

But the three per cent tax would raise substantially less. Some other excises or changes in other revenue laws would be needed. The legislature would have nothing to "give away", as the governor put it. (Some persons may wonder whether the slight property tax relief that was achieved two years ago after decades of clamor was a give-away, moreover.)

Mr. Reynolds is plainly pondering the quandary that will face him three or four months hence when the time for decision will be at hand.

Strictly Personal

Editor Has Right Idea On Radio Appearance

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I admire and envy a writer friend of mine, who takes the proper stance on a matter I feel strongly about, but rarely have the courage to enforce.

Sitting with him in his study a few weeks ago, I overheard a telephone conversation between him and a man from a radio station. The man had called my friend to participate in a round table program; as he had a loud, clear, radio-type voice. I could hear both ends of the conversation.

"I get the picture," said my friend. "What fee are you prepared to pay for this job?"

"Well," said the radio man, "it's a sustaining, public-service program, you see, and so we don't have any money allocated for speakers."

"Are you being paid for your work on it," asked my friend, "or are you contributing your services, too?"

"Naturally," said the man, "I'm getting my regular salary. It's part of my job."

"It's not part of mine," said my friend. "What about the engineer in the control booth for the program. Is he getting paid?"

"Well, certainly," said the radio man. "It's his job too."

"I thought that perhaps he was volunteering after hours, as a gesture of generosity and goodwill," my friend remarked. "Now tell me this — what about the announcer, the producer, the director, and the man who comes in and sweeps the floor afterwards? Are any of them doing it as a public service?"

"No, of course not," admitted the radio man. "But we just don't have anything in our budget for speakers. There's no money available."

"I can go along with that," said my friend. "I'm not greedy for money. But I'm sure you don't want charity either. Since you're asking a service of me, why can't you reciprocate with one for me?"

"Such as what?" asked the radio man.

"There's a lot that needs doing around my house — the walls need washing, the basement should be calcimined, and some bookshelves have to be put up. Why don't you come around on Saturday, or send someone around, to do these chores — and then I'll gladly let you have my services for the program."

"I've never heard of such a thing in my life," spluttered the man.

"Neither have I!" purred my friend. "But I think it's high time we both heard it. You'll let me know, won't you? Thank you — and good-by."

abandoned, Gronouski said, the GOP will lose its own party's support.

Chides Industry
Gronouski chided industry for backing the sales tax. He said at present, industry in Wisconsin is paying $11.5 million sales tax dollars annually. Under Gov. Reynolds' tax bill, industry would be paying $6 million annually, the commissioner said.

Gronouski also attacked the editorial policy of state newspapers. He said newspapers have been claiming that Reynolds can't raise the budget $100 million with a 1 per cent income tax boost. "The governor's tax bill will raise enough funds to meet a $300 million budget increase with only a 3 per cent income tax increase," he claimed.

The commissioner also spoke out against those in higher income tax brackets who object to Reynolds' tax increase proposal.

Outlines Plan
He said a man earning $20,000 yearly would pay 4.65 per cent of his income in state taxes. "If this 4.65 cents per dollar is enough to make him leave the state, how can he ask a $3,000-a-year man to pay a 3 per cent sales tax?" Gronouski asked.

He outlined and defended the three points of Reynolds plan:

1. Financing of additional government expenses including schools and other institutions through an income tax increase. He said "We're not going to shut down our schools in the name of economy."

2. Elimination of deductions for state income tax payments. He said this would result in a tax rate increase for the higher income tax brackets, but 70 per cent of the state's taxpayers do not take this deduction but take the standard 10 per cent deduction.

End Sales Tax

3. Eliminate the selective sales tax. He said this would be made constantly renewed promises, have been suddenly liquidated."

White House Silent

The White House said there would be no comment, Miro had delivered a copy of his document to the State Department, which called it "highly inaccurate and distorted." Miro said the State Department attack forced him to make his document public.

"Experts on Latin America" are not aware of the disaster overtaking the whole continent," Miro said. "They assure us that the panacea for all the social ills of our countries lies in the Alliance for Progress program."

The success of that program, he contended, "will depend on the eradication of the Communist regime in Cuba."

Replying to contentions that an invasion of Cuba might lead to a nuclear holocaust, Miro argued that Khrushchev "would not provoke an armed conflict" because Cuba is outside the Soviet zone of influence.

"Permanent revolution is his goal," Miro said. Venezuela is already up in arms by Castro's order. Colombia is torn by Castro's order. Argentina is beset by constant convulsions and the Marxist ferment in all the rest of the nations is the terrifying forerunner of the catastrophe yet to come.

Submits Resignation

"Dominated by the specter of uncertainty and with my confidence lost in the fulfillment of promised securities," Miro told the council "I cannot continue in the leadership position."

As he walked out, one Cuban rose and shouted:

Viva Miro. You are the Cuban public."

Miro, 60, a former jurist said Kennedy gave orders at the April 10, 1962 meeting for massive recruiting of exiles and said that six divisions would be required.

"Your destiny is to suffer," Miro said the President told him at the conclusion of the meeting.

Do not weaken. You have my support and I reiterate my earlier pronouncements."

The council made a census of up for by the income tax boost.

Gronouski said the sales tax would remain on some items such as autos, alcohol and tobacco products, in the form of an excise tax.

Gronouski also said this excise tax would save the state money because it would be collected from wholesalers instead of retailers.

He said today, the 3 per cent sales tax on alcohol has to be collected from 14,000 retailers. Under the new plan, it would be collected from 95 wholesalers, Gronouski said.

possible fighters, Miro said, and he visited presidents and foreign ministers of Central America and found them "united, proud, in solidarity with Cuba, but defenseless." Meanwhile, he said, Moscow was pouring men and arms into Cuba.

When Kennedy announced the blockade, he said, the Free World responded enthusiastically and countries which had been neutral and indifferent aligned themselves with the United States. "Many of them mobilized their forces."

Tensely, the council stood by, waiting for word from the government. Then on the afternoon of the 24th, Miro said he was informed that "the projected actions are momentarily delayed."

Blockade Lifted

While "Khrushchev parleyed," he said, "the date agreed upon arrived. But the blockade was suspended, 'public spirit deflated.' It was futile trying to argue."

Later, Kennedy appeared in the Orange Bowl at Miami before members of Brigade 2506 who had been captured at the Bay of Pigs, then ransomed by the United States, and delivered an address that Miro said gave the exiles "a rebirth of lost confidence."

The President accepted the flag of the brigade and promised that it would be returned to the members "in a free Cuba."

Promise Repeated

"His words were vibrant, energetic, decisive and uncompromising," Miro said. "He repeated to the world his obligation to Cuba."

Then President Villeda Morales of Honduras after an interview with Kennedy in Washington came to Miami and told the exiles "soon very soon Cuba shall be liberated," Miro said.

With agonizing slowness the months dragged by, Miro said. He said he nagged the government and received repeated assurances. But things were happening that dropped his spirits lower and lower.

was received from O'Donnell in a closed hearing March 1.

O'Donnell stood to collect at least $150,000 in fees under the 1962 act, said Fulbright, and possibly $300,000 more if he were compensated for some $6 million in claims filed by Philippine sugar mills.

Used Cashier's Checks

The committee produced documents purporting to show that campaign contributions to friendly candidates for House and Senate were made with cashier's checks purchased from a Washington bank.

One document showed a payment of $1,000 to Edward McCormack, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack. D-Mass. The younger McCormack then was seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general of Massachusetts.

Among others to whom O'Donnell said he gave $500 was Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., now GOP national chairman, then chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee.

Other $500 campaign gifts went to former Rep. Walter Judd, R-Minn., former Sen. Allen Frear, D-Cal., now a member of the Se-scene. So he, too, concentrated on that.

In toto, the speech added up to a massive plea for the program he has submitted to Congress, including his proposed $10 billion curities and Exchange Commission, and Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va.

The record showed $108 contributions to Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Pat McNamara, D-Mich., and E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska.

Humphrey said in a statement, "I had no personal knowledge of any campaign contribution."

Zablocki said he tried to return the contribution but O'Donnell insisted it be used for the Democratic National Committee's Jefferson Jackson Day dinner in Washington.

set tax cut, spread over three years.

Community Benefits

As for the average family man in "Random Village," Kennedy said, the cut would reduce his federal taxes about 20 per cent. The whole community, he said, "will benefit even more from the stimulation in jobs and personal income that the tax cut will give to the nation."

"The federal government is the people—and the budget is a reflection of their needs," Kennedy said. He said that to cut a dollar of expenditures for every dollar cut in taxes would remove with one hand the stimulus given with the other.

"Let us understand, then," the President said, "that every dollar cut in federal expenditures cuts even more from our gross national product. A cut of $5 billion now from the proposed federal budget, as many have suggested, would cause one million fewer jobs by the end of the fiscal year. It would offset all the benefits which the tax cut would have brought by then."

Repeats Arguments

"And if that lower level of expenditures were maintained there after it would eventually cause not only a recession but an even greater budgetary loss in revenue than the amount supposedly saved."

Kennedy was repeating here familiar arguments he has laid down before.

A $15 billion budget cut, Kennedy repeated, would cripple the nation's defenses, make it permanently second-best in space, and "virtually turn the clock back in every American community."

Every million dollars in the budget, he said, makes possible efforts in hundreds of communities for such programs as curing cancer, curbing narcotics, building libraries, extending mail service, or feeding hungry children.

The President recited many of the items he wants from Congress in the fields of education, health, help for the aged, housing, welfare programs, job retraining programs, water pollution and efforts to end racial discrimination.

"In short," he summed up, "the federal government is not so remote and our new legislative proposals are not so radical. Nor is the domestic budget as sometimes pictured a catalogue of bureaucratic waste."

All Must Cooperate

It is an effort to meet those needs of the individual, the family and the community which can best be met by the nationwide cooperation of all, and which cannot be met by state and local governments.

"These needs must be met—and to take them out of the federal budget will only cast them on state and local governments, whose expenditures, debt and payrolls have all increased many times faster than those of the federal government. In fact were it not for federal aid to hard pressed state and local governments, the federal cash budget today would be in balance."

Yet somehow "federal spending" has become a frightening term. People do not stop to realize that it stands for weather bureau and meat inspection and school lunches and national parks and airport control towers and all the other aspects of our daily life that we could not do without."

Would Strengthen U.S.

Kennedy acknowledged that there will be debate as to details of his tax and spending plans, and differences over dimension and degree. But he proposed to the editors "getting on with the main task of strengthening the American nation—of opening a road on which our children can travel—of making the most of the riches we have."

"Let us get on," he urged, "with the business of government, and the business of reporting on the government, and the business of appraising the government, with a devotion to truth and perspective. I ask you to criticize us when we are wrong. Perhaps applaud us when we are right. Warn us when we are in danger. But, above all, let us get on."

Kennedy said that his legislative slate for the domestic scene contains fewer than 30 top-priority measures and isn't expensive. Wiping them out entirely, he said, would lower next year's prospective $12 billion deficit by less than $2 billion.

Kennedy had agreed to have a question and answer session following his address, and many of the editors were primed with questions on the steel price rises and Cuba—the latter subject fanned into fresh controversy by Thursday night by exile leader Jose Miro Cardona.

GOP Scuttles New Income Tax Bill

State Republicans Flatly Predict General Sales Tax to be Enacted

BY JOHN WINGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON—Republicans threw down the gauntlet to Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds Thursday as their well-disciplined state assembly majority scuttled the Democratic administration's high income tax bill.

Assemblyman Glenn Pommerening of Wauwatosa, chief finance spokesman of the Republican majority assembly caucus, flatly predicted that the GOP intends to enact a general sales tax for the financing of an adequate level of services for the next two years, and that Reynolds makes good his threat to veto it out of hand, the responsibility for resulting financial chaos and a probable cut-back in essential state services will be his.

"The Republicans intend to provide financing for an adequate level of services," he declared.

The next act in the capitol's fiscal drama—which may turn out to be a tragedy—will be the enactment of the substitute general sales tax bill. Reynolds and Democrats have publicly doubted that the Republicans can hold their lines on the bill. Authoritative reports have it, however, that political noses have been counted and that there is a pledged majority for such a bill in both legislative houses.

"We want a fine university and a great welfare department. We don't want to see them destroyed. We will provide the money. If our finance program is not enacted, it will be because of the objections of a reactionary governor who is devoted to outworn slogans," Pommerening said of the repeated Reynolds denunciations of the idea of sales taxation.

Assembly debate on the Reynolds tax program was brief, but it exhibited the deepening breach between the two politically hostile branches of the state government, nevertheless.

Burning Resentment
Pommerening spoke coolly and dispassionately, but he made it clear that the Republicans are burning with resentment about what they regard as the Democratic governor's obduracy and his statement earlier in the week that Republican negotiators won't be welcome in his office if they propose to compromise the impending deadlock in any terms involving the sales tax.

The evident meaning of the reply of Pommerening, Thursday, seconded by Speaker Robert Haase of the house, was to transmit the idea that the next move is up to Reynolds and that if there is a collapse in the state treasury because of their inability to negotiate a settlement, they are preparing to take the question into the next election campaign.

The capitol has become accustomed to talk of deficits and their consequences and most of its inhabitants know that always, in the end, such legislative disputes are patched. But the situation is clearly different today. The hostilities are genuine. The financial problem is far more severe than ever before. The state must have at least $100,000,000 more in budget revenues, or invite enormous repercussions in the form of reduced aids to localities, unopened classrooms in state colleges and universities, unopened welfare institutions and others that would be without precedent in state administration.

Angry Denunciation
Haase joined in the angry denunciation of Reynolds during the assembly verbal battle, after Democratic Assemblyman Robert Hubert of West Allis, minority leader, predicted that the Republicans "will ultimately come to your senses" and determine to resolve the differences with the government.

"If compromise means higher income taxes, it is going to be awfully hard to reach a compromise," snapped Haase in reply. Haase added sarcastically that

Youngsters Invade Drive On Rawhide

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2)—At last someone has tackled the theme of white captives raised by Indians and avoided the usual ending Rowdy (Clint Eastwood) brings three youngsters, Yellow Sky, Running Dog and Winter Night, to the Rawhide drive after he has ransomed them from their Apache captives. The children, raised by the Apaches, are savage and hostile and the process of winning them over is slow and often painful—they bite.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — Route 66 repeats an episode which put Arlington, Tenn., a community of about 500, on the map. The show was filmed in this cotton gin town, many of the townspeople serve as extras and the area's traditional folk music is used. The story features Richard Basehart, as a love-em-and-leave-em composer, who finds Arlington a good place to work.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 4-5)—Posters provide the inspiration for the music on Sing Along With Mitch. Travel posters take us to Les Uggams sings "Stranger in Paradise" to Australia for "Waltzing Matilda." Then "man wanted" posters send us to jail where the gang joins in "The Prisoner's Song." (Color)

8-8:30 (Channel 11)—Love makes the show go 'round on Here's Edie. Edie Adams leads off with "You're Nobody 'Til Somebody Loves You," then follows by Brahms Lullaby as a salute to mother love. The United Nations Children's Choir of Southern California (and they are not connected with the U.N.) sings "Let There Be Peace on Earth." Buddy Hackett, representing a glutton, sings "Food, Food, Food" with the help of a quartet of portly gentlemen.

8:30-9 (Channel 4-5)—Bill Cullen announces the winner of the boat sweepstakes on The Price Is Right. In another section, a husband and wife can parlay their knowledge of each other's taste into big money. (Color)

8:30-9:30 (Channel 2)—The Alfred Hitchcock Hour has one of those finger-lickers in which nearly everyone from whom a family seeks help turns out to be part of a gang of thieves. The family, Michael Wilding, Anna Lee and Katherine Crawford, are English and driving across the country on holiday. They stop off for a spot of tea in a small Arizona town, where their sleazy daughter (Miss Crawford) crawls into the wrong station wagon for a nap.

TEST YOURSELF—17

Are You Artistic?

In modern art-talent tests, the trend is to rely less on preferences and more on measures of technical capacity. The test which follows is typical.

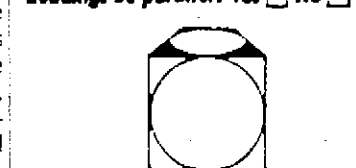

Its aim is to establish whether you can develop the technical mastery essential in pictorial art. By this is meant not motor or manual proficiency, for investigation has shown these to have little to do with artistic talent. The issue, rather, is your capacity to retain, analyze and reproduce images—a special form of spatial adjustment which appears to lie at the bottom of pictorial technique.

DIRECTIONS—Examine each drawing separately, and check as indicated by the question or statement within the frame.

Stand Off Bad Break n Trumps

Gazing into another person's eyes is considered a good move in one of the world's favorite indoor sports. It's good at bridge, too, but not as good as thinking. South won the first trick with the king of diamonds and led the jack of spades from his hand.

Opening lead — ♦ Q

West calmly played a low spade. South stared West right in the eye, and West stared right back. It might have been a touching sight, except that both were men and neither was exactly a beauty. Eventually South did just what he had expected to do all along. He played the ace of spades from dummy. East discarded a diamond, and South moaned like a garrotted gnu.

South eventually lost a spade and a club, for a score of minus 100 instead of plus 1430. So much for the value of staring an opponent in the eye.

Spade Play
The slam depended on the correct spade play. At the second trick South should lead the king of spades.

If it turns out that West has all of the missing trumps (as in this hand), South discovers the bad break and can next lead the jack of spades through West's queen. The rest is easy.

What if East has all three trumps? South takes the king and ace of trumps, cashes the ace of diamonds, and runs his hearts. If East fails to ruff, South leads a third round of trumps to put East on the lead. Now East must give dummy a free club finesse or must lead a red card to let dummy ruff, while South discards a club. Either way the slam is home.

The point is that South can rely on this end-play if East has all of the trumps. He has no such end-play if West has the trumps. So must play the spades in such a way as to preserve a finesse against West.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S A 8 7 6 4 H Q 10 6 D 8 2 C A Q 10. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You cannot jump to three hearts with only three-card support. Bid your own suit first and raise the hearts later.

Live Within Your Income Make Your Will While You Still Have the Time

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:
My husband and I have been married now for 16 years. I have one son and my husband has a son and daughter, all married. When we came here to live, we both pooled what money we received from our jobs and bought our home. The house is in both our names as that is the way we wanted it.

However, we have heard that in case my husband passed away before I did, the law does not allow the house to go to me.

We have talked about this often, but have really done nothing about having a will made. My husband doesn't want his children to make any kind of trouble for me about the house in case anything should happen, as they are both very selfish and have never helped us out when we had any trouble. He feels they don't deserve any part of anything.

Please let us know what you think.

Mrs. J. R. Largo, Fla.

Dear Mrs. R.:
I think it's time to stop talking about having a will made and do it. It's always worth the small amount of money involved. The drafting of a will involves making decisions requiring professional judgment. You and your husband should explain to a lawyer just what your desires are in regard to the home, and let him advise you as to the wording of the will.

Otherwise the state law will decide for you, and it will be too late for the survivor to do anything about it.

Dear Miss Feeley:

Your column on separate checking accounts for married couples caught me off base. We have always banked jointly. However, after trying to be objective, I'll admit you're right—there are too many arguments when canceled checks come in and it's "balancing" time.

But while you're right in point, you are wrong in reasons.

It's not women who need the experience of managing money. They are the ones who are doing it! Of all our friends, I can think of few whose husbands pay all the bills. In most cases, they are the ones who are being pestered by bill collectors. Not because hubby is a dunce, but because he has so much else on his mind. In our business society today, if a man is going to do nothing but plod along, 9 to 5, he will never succeed. (By succeed, I mean the feeling of fulfillment.) He must use every ounce of mental energy on his business and not spend time on the arithmetics of balancing check books.

Mrs. J.C.S., Chicago

Dear Mrs. S.:
It's a smart wife who has that angle figured out. I'm sure many a man could have traveled farther and faster if his wife had said to him: "You do the thinking. I'll do the balancing act."

Dear Miss Feeley:

Can you please tell me how to proceed to get a Rural Housing Loan under the Senior Citizens Housing Act?

G.C.S., Bellevue, Fla.

Dear G.C.S.:
These loans are made available by authorization of the Secretary of Agriculture under the Senior Citizens Housing Act of 1962.

This act provides housing in rural areas for people 62 years old or older, at a maximum interest rate of 5 and one fourth per cent. If you contact the Farmers Home Administration office in your community, they will give you the details.

The required down payment for such housing may be advanced by a corporation or private interests, when the borrower is 62 years old or older.

(You can write to Mary Feeley in care of this paper. She will answer questions of widest interest in her column.)

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

PARTY TO DISPLAY GIFTS

Dear Louise: Following our daughter's marriage ceremony there will be a reception at a club for about 350 people. We do not wish to have any gifts opened and displayed at this time. There would be such confusion and we prefer that the reception be just a social "fun affair." Would it be all right to wait until after the wedding trip, when my daughter and her bridegroom give an Open House? In her thank you notes, could my daughter say that they will entertain with a party at which time the gifts would be displayed? Or could the thank you, together with the invitations to the Open House be printed?

Louise Davis Answers:

Since the reception will be held at a club instead of your residence, I am in favor of your suggestion of side-tracking the displaying of gifts. I like the idea of a newly married couple giving an Open House as a pleasant substitute within a few weeks after the wedding. Perhaps your letter will inspire others to follow through.

It would not be correct to have thank you's printed. The hand written notes should be personal and sincere, and the specific gift should be mentioned in each note. By setting the date for the party, say a month after the wedding, your daughter could give herself a deadline to get all of her notes written. In each one she could include a brief paragraph about the Open House. Therefore the notes would serve two purposes, a thank you and an invitation.

Your Problems

Cigar Smoking Not Habitual; Serves Only to Cloud Issue

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a traveling man who leaves home on Monday and returns on Friday. This has been my routine for 12 years.

My wife knew this when I married her eight years ago and she said it was O.K. with her—that she would never beef about my being away. Her father worked on the railroad so she was accustomed to it.

She has kept her promise, but now I think maybe I have other problems.

Last night I arrived home a few hours earlier than usual. The place was filled with cigar smoke. There was a cigar butt in the ash tray. My wife was washing her hair. When I asked about the smoke in the house and showed her the cigar butt she said, "I've always wanted to smoke a cigar, so tonight I tried one." What do you think?—Losing by a Nose

Dear Nose: Any woman who can think that fast is going to be awfully hard to out-smart.

In the absence of other evidence accept her explanation—and keep your eyes open.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter received a party invitation in the mail yesterday. She said, "Isn't this cute?" and handed it to me. I was shocked to see a line—written across the bottom of the invitation which read—"Bring your own bottle."

Marie is a college freshman—but only 17. The party, she argued, is being given by one of the "best-rated girls in town." Her father is a doctor and her mother is one of the society leaders. They live in a mansion with a three-car garage.

I told her I didn't care about their garage and that she wasn't going to the party. There was no arguing. Marie muttered "O.K." and that was the end of it.

My husband says maybe I am wrong. He claims perhaps we should allow our daughter to be exposed to all sides of life, and make her own choices. What is your opinion?—Louisiana Purchase

Dear Purchase: I'm with you, mother. It's bad enough when 17-year-olds go to parties that somehow "turn out" to be drunken brawls. But to knowingly allow your teen-ager to attend a party to which she has been instructed to "bring her own bottle" would be stupid.

Teen-age drinking is assuming dangerous proportions and it's getting worse. Parents who allow kids to make such "choices" are merely covering up for the fact that they have lost control.

DEAR ANN: I am 19. He is 21. Jim is the nicest guy I ever met. I am trying desperately not to fall head over tea-kettle, but I am losing the battle.

The problem is this: Jim has another girl who keeps giving him the run-around. He has told me he's in love with this girl but he enjoys my company a great deal. I'd have to be pretty dumb not to realize that I am his second choice.

This girl treats Jim like dirt. She stands him up when she gets a chance to go with fellows she considers more important. Then he calls me—and I go running. I hope one day he will see what she is doing to him and that he will stick with me. What are my chances?—Spence

Dear Spence: Your chances are about the same as a snow-flake on the Sahara. Some men just love to be kicked around. The more abusive the treatment, the better they like it.

If this girl drops him on his head he will probably fall for another girl who treats him the same way. And you will continue to be second—or third.

Planning a wedding? Leave nothing to chance. Ann Landers' newest booklet, "The Bride's Guide," has all the answers (from announcing the engagement to "who pays for what"). To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
